Americans Join in Great Offensive

GAIN TWO MILES IN DRIVE TO CRUSH FOE

By FRANK CHARLTON,
International News Service Cable Editor.

Turning upon their enemies in the fourth day of the German offensive, the allies began a powerful counter drive this morning over a front of more than thirty miles along the western flank of the Aisne-Marne salient.

The zone of attacks extended from Fontenoy-sur-Aisne, immediately west of Soissons on the northern bank of the isne River, to the region of Belleau wood, just northwest of Chateau Thierry.

It was assumed from the official report issued by the French War Office that Americans were taking part in the assaults, as they hold Belleau wood and the terrain to the north of the wood.

It was a remarkable fact that the Franco-American forces gained practically as much ground in a few hours' fighting as the Germans did in the first day of their grand offensive on Monday, despite the fact that the Germans had been preparing for many weeks and had the advantage of great masses of artillery for preliminary cannonading and overwhelming concentrations of picked troops.

The extent to which General Foch planned to press the counter blow could not be foretold from the official communique issued by the French War Office at noon.

It was supposed that the object of the counter-offensive was to relieve German pressure against Rheims and to divert the Germans' attention from the Marne.

There were a number of violent local actions on the Marne-Champagne front, but generally speaking the fighting in the latest German drive has slowed down.

TRAGEDY MYSTERY GROWS

Two More Parts of Girl's Body Found on Fall River Side of Taunton River

Fall River, July 18. — Two more parts of the body of the victim of the Taunton River murder mystery were picked up today on the Fall River side of the river in the north section of the city.

The place is directly across the river from the spot where the first find took place. The portions of the body discovered indicate that the body had been hacked into small pieces. The two portions found today weighed about five pounds each. They were taken to the undertaking rooms of Daniel & M. J. Coughlin.

New interest attached to the case by the information in the hands of the police of the disappearance from Newport of a young married woman named Ruth Turner. It is understood her husband is in France.

The police are informed that Mrs. Turner was a woman of about the complexion and weight of the murdered girl. Inquiry among her friends is being made to ascertain if she bore some of the other characteristics of the dead girl, such as the extra incisor found in the mouth of the dead woman.

The police will also investigate the whereabouts of a man with whom Mrs. Turner is said to have been seen recently.

THIONVILLE RAILWAY, BEHIND LINES, BOMBED

London, July 18.—The railway at Thionville, near Metz, was bombed again yesterday, it was announced today. Works and airdromes behind the German front also were bombed. Gen. Pershing's Cable Gives New Hope for Lieut. Roosevelt

By International News Service.

New York, July 18.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt today received a cablegram from General John J. Pershing which caused the former President to hold out some hope that his son, Lieutenant Quentin Roosevelt, might yet be safe.

General Pershing's cablegram to the colonel follows:

"Regret very much to inform you that your son, Lieutenant Quentin Roosevelt, is reported as missing. On July 14 with a patrol of twelve planes he left on a mission of protecting a photographic section. Seven enemy planes were sighted and attacked after which the enemy planes retired and our planes broke off the combat and returned to their base. Lieutenant Roosevelt did not return.

"A member of his squadron reports seeing one of our planes fall out of the combat and into the clouds. The French report an American plane was seen descending. I hope he may have landed safely. Will advise immediately on receipt of further information."

Colonel Roosevelt at once sent the following reply:

"We are deeply grateful for your thoughtful kindness and we will never forget it."

LYNN STRIKERS ARE WARNED TO STAND FIRM

Warnings to striking operatives of the General Electric Company in Lynn were issued today at mass meetings by Charles D. Keavney, organizer for the International Electrical Workers, against attempts of company officials to persuade them to return to work when they appeared for their pay at the West Lynn plant. Reports of captains and pickets that so far the ranks of the strikers remain unbroken were received with cheers.

The company has applied to Mayor Creamer for additional police protection when the strikers are paid off today and tomorrow. More than $250,-863 has been brought by two large trucks from the banks to the company's vaults, to pay the workers. Today is pay day for workers at the West Lynn plant, and tomorrow at 1:30 the River Works operatives will receive their pay.

Meetings were announced for this afternoon at Columbia Hall, when moulders will hear an address by an international organizer, and Saturday at 11:15 a. m. for women only, when a woman speaker will address them.

Mr. Keavney reported that the demands of the strikers have been forwarded to the company and also to Henry J. Skeffington, government conciliator. The morning meetings were attended by thousands. The strikers declared themselves satisfied that a settlement would soon be reached, maintaining that the company would not hold out much longer on the ground that the government would not permit a tieup of work which involves government contracts.

All orders held by the company, according to General Manager Walter C. Fish, will be completed, but he would not state when or where.

AMERICAN SMASH ON THE OURCQ

Concentrated Drive from River to Chateau Thierry Nets Big Allied Gain

London, July 18.—Twelve towns occupied by the Germans have been captured by the American and French forces engaged in anew offensive launched early today, according to an official report reaching here.

The new Franco-American attack began in the early morning hours, with the usual period of intensive artillery fire. At the given order the troops rushed forward practically all along the long battlefront.

The chief American gains were between the Ourcq River and the Chateau Thierry region. Among the places captured were Licy-Clignon, Torcy, Givry, St. Gengoulphe, Viller-Helon, Demmard, Monthiers, Hautesvenes and Belleau. Givery wood was occupied early in the rush.

Several other woods and heights were brought behind the American lines. Numerous prisoners were taken. At noon the captives were still streaming back from the advanced fighting areas.

AMERICAN LINE IS STAUNCH AS GIBRALTAR

By International News Service.

Washington, July 18.—Failure of enemy attempts to penetrate the American line near Vaux, and confirmation of the press reports of the Americans regaining possession of the south bank of the Marne, feature General Pershing's communique under date of July 17.

Section A: "In the Marne sector our troops have entirely regained possession of the south bank of the river. Northwest of Chateau Thierry the enemy yesterday repeated his attempts of the previous day to penetrate our lines near Vaux. His attack was completely broken up by our infantry and artillery fire before reaching our lines."

Section B—Northwest of Chateau Thierry, between the evening of July 14 and the evening of July 16, the enemy made determined but entirely unsuccessful attacks on our positions near Vaux. During the night of July 14 and 15 he delivered a heavy bombardment which included the use of much gas, and which, in the early morning, developed into a barrage of the Vaux area. Under cover of this a storming party attacked the village. The system of infiltration by groups was used and some of these groups passed one of our advanced outposts, northeast of Vaux. Our troops delivered withering machine-gun fire on the assailants and counter attacked on the right of the assaulting party where the penetration had taken place. At the same time our artillery dropped a barrage in this section to cut off the enemy's retreat. The enemy fled, but many were caught in our barrage and eighteen taken prisoner. The attack was a complete failure, the enemy at no time penetrating our lines.

"On the evening of July 15, the attacks in this region were renewed. A box barrage, which again included many gas shells, was placed by the enemy on the Vaux region at 4:30 o'clock in the evening and several large hostile groups attempted to advance, firing heavily on our positions. This attempt also collapsed. Our infantry fire and a creeping barrage from our own batteries again broke up the assault."

Navy Warns Newport Folk to Cancel Sea Bathing

Newport, R. I., July 18.—Back to the bathtub for three days. Don't go ocean swimming unless you yearn to be blown out of the water.

Captain J. W. Oman, commandant Second Naval District, has issued a warning against sea bathing in this vicinity for today, tomorrow and Saturday on account of "experimental explosions" which the naval authorities have on their program. His warning adds that these explosions will cause "loud reports and make it dangerous for all persons in the water."

The barred bathing zone includes all ocean beaches from Narragansett Pier to Sachuest Point and in the waters of Narragansett Bay, south of Melville.

The experiments will be staged near Taylor's Point on Conanicut Island.

Even the smart society set at Bailey's Beach, which is reputed to hunger for new sensations, will hardly risk such a toss.

"Two field guns in German forward positions were captured in the course of the operation, together with a number of prisoners and some machine guns.

"We improved our positions also to a slight extent during the night east of Hebuterne. We carried out a successful raid south of the village and drove off a hostile raiding party south of Quesnoy.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., July 18.—With a predicted swing toward Theodore Roosevelt for Governor, the Republican State convention opened shortly after noon today with a call on the party to unite, and not divide, a possibility leaders foresee in the Governor Whitman-Attorney-General Lewis fight for the party's nomination. The convention opened in a blaze of patriotism. For the first time in the history of the major parties of the State women sat as delegates. Former Senator J. Sloat Fassett of Elmira delivered the keynote speech.

SOUTH BOSTON AUXILIARY FOR THE 101ST INFANTRY

He declined to say he would be a candidate. Pinned for a direct answer, he declared he "would speak to friends about it."

FRENCH AND AMERICANS STRIKE TERRIFIC COUNTER-BLOW AT FOE

ALLIES ATTACK ON FRONT OF MORE THAN 30 MILES ALONG AISNE-MARNE SALIENT

There have been do big changes in the battle lines.

There were sharp local actions southeast of Vaucaulls, Fosse (between the Marne and Rheims), near Prosnes (in Champagne) and south of the Marne River in the Montvoisin-Chene-La-Reine sector.

The Germans renewed their efforts to fight their way into the wooded Rheims mountain (south of the city), but were repulsed in the struggle around Nantouil La Fosse.

South of the Marne the Germans have been thrown back at the point where their lines approached nearest to Epernay, one of the two main local objectives of the Germans in the present offensive.

Montvoisin (only about six miles from Epernay) has been retaken by the French, and the Germans were thrown back from nearby heights overlooking the Marne River, according to unofficial reports. The village of Chene la Reine has also been wrested from the Germans according to an unofficial dispatch.

The counter-measures taken by the allies against the Germans in the present offensive are the biggest and most effective of any taken in any of the previous four German drives this year.

The Germans lost the initiative almost as soon as they got their present drive under way, and never regained it.

Paris is just as safe today as it was before the hosts of Lidendorff were sent forward on Monday morning.

German Setback Blow at Entire German Army, Say Washington Experts

By International News Service.

Washington, July 18.—The Reserve has passed from the Germans to the Americans and French at most of the points along the western battle front, where fighting is in progress, according to all of the information reaching here today.

The German assaults everywhere are believed to have broken down. Veteran officers here from both the British and French armies, who are entirely familiar with the ground over which the Germans have vainly attempted to hack their way through the American-French defences, unhesitatingly declared today that Germany had launched a most serious reverse in this, her fifth attempt to "force peace with the sword."

And they do not hesitate to explain that the failure of the German effort will have a most disheartening effect on the entire German army.

APPROVE LEFT FLANK ATTACK.

One very cheering report reaching here today declared that the American and French troops on the front line began an offensive directed against the left flank of the German armies which have been engaged in this week's battle.

Army officers were without any general details of this particular action, but it was accepted as entirely what could be expected. This movement was intended to turn the Germans in the thirty-mile sector between Fontenoy, of historic fame, and Belleau wood, where the marines have been covering themselves with glory.

It is believed here that this movement will bring into action the first regular army division, under command of Major-General Robert L. Bullard, which is the first division of Major-General Hunter Liggett's first army corps and which has been holding the ground west of that in which the second corps has been engaged, according to the information made public by General March, chief of staff, on Saturday.

There was a growing belief here today that the big counter-offensive which will mark the beginning of the drive to throw the Germans back to their own frontiers will not be long postponed.

FORERUNNER OF BIG BLOW.

Today's reported offensive of the Americans and French is designed primarily to straighten out the allied line and give the Germans a taste of the metal of their opponents. But army experts were very hopeful that it would prove the forerunner of the general counter-offensive which is to come. Whether this is so or not, however, will depend entirely on the decision of General Foch and the supreme war council at Versailles.

As was pointed out in these dispatches on Monday, American and allied officers here have been confident that when the time came that the onrushing Germans were held in their tracks and then thrown back in their tracks the finish of the German efforts to maintain the offensive would be in sight.

Today these same experts are confirmed in this belief. When the war council and his generalissimo are convinced that the time has come to strike, the entire allied army on the western front, reserves included, will be thrown into action regardless of cost to completely crush the German military power.

Six weeks ago Secretary of War Baker told the Senate military affairs committee that it would be the task of the United States this year to send sufficient troops across to hold the western line firm and that next year the preponderance of American troops would allow the offensive to be maintained uninterruptedly at all times. But with the American man power program already more than six months ahead of schedule there was a general feeling in official circles that possibly the program for next year might be undertaken this Autumn.

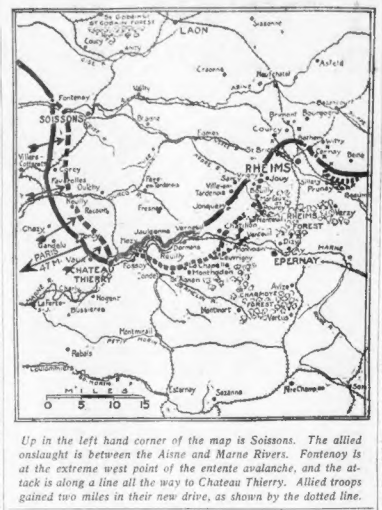

TABLES NOW TURNED.

Although officials carefully voiced warnings to the newspapers not to raise too high hopes at this time, they made little effort to conceal their elation over the developments of today. Monday the Germans launched their most formidable drive of the year.

Today—three days later—not only has that drive been checked everywhere, but the offensive has passed to the allies and the Germans have suffered very heavy losses in men and materials, with no corresponding compensation anywhere.

The big flanking movement along the Fontenay-Belleau wood line must of necessity distract the attention of the Germans from their original objective, officers explained. And not only that, but they will be compelled to maintain their reserves at all points because they will be unable to tell whether this particular movement is not the forerunner of a most dangerous forward movement all along the line.

U.S. TROOPS AND FRENCH PLOW THROUGH FOE

Deal Hard Blow to Germans in Counter Offensive on the Marne

London, July 18 (1:30 p. m.).—While the French were recapturing ground from the Germans south of the Marne, the French (and probably Americans) opened a series of powerful counter-attacks between Soissons and Chateau Thierry today. Good progress was made, advices reaching here this afternoon said.

The German strategy in the Marne-Champagne offensive was to strike a highway and railway between Epernay and Rheims, forcing the evacuation of Rheims, but they were still a considerable distance from both lines of communication this afternoon. Nor have the Germans been able to take the wooded high ground known as Mont de Rheims.

The Germans planned a great strategic success, but had an alternative plan if the offensive failed.

The enemy still has sufficient reserves for a new offensive, greater than the present drive. However, the relative situation regarding reserves is in favor of the allies, as the Germans have used up more of their reserve forces than the allies since the battle began Monday morning.

The French base at Epernay is believed safe from further attack.

South of the Marne the French have retaken Montvoisin and Chene la Reine and the heights to the west, overlooking the Marne.

The total German advance in the direction of Epernay from their original starting point Monday was about six miles.

Farther west (south of the Marne) the Germans were able to make some slight progress north of St. Agnan, but their progress yesterday was the smallest yet.

The Germans also made an insignificant gain in the sector of Courton wood (between Rheims and the Marne river).

The French have retaken Clisel.

In the Champagne district (east of Rheims) the French extended their lines.

The bombing of the bridges which the Germans threw across the Marne continues.

Germans Face Disaster Like That of Austrians in Piave Catastrophe

By Agence Radio to the International News Service.

Paris, July 18.—The Germans on the southern bank of the Marne are faced with a disaster similar to the one that overtook the Austro-Hungarians in the collapse of their offensive on the Piave.

Allied aviators are becoming increasingly active and are bombing the German bridges on the Marne as rapidly as they are built. The Germans are reported to be withdrawing their reserves for action elsewhere.

The Germans that crossed the Marne in the sector held by all-American forces were all driven to the northern bank by counter attacks.

Allies' Savage Thrust Nets More Than a Mile Gain and Many Captives

By International News Service.

Paris, July 18.—General Foch, the allied generalissimo, began a strong counter-offensive against the Germans on the Aisne-Marne front today, his forces attacking and gaining ground between the sectors of Fontenoy and Belleau wood, a distance of more than thirty miles.

At some points from two to three kilometers' advance (from 1¼ to nearly two miles) was scored, and prisoners were taken.

Americans are on the southern part of this fighting zone, as they hold Belleau wood and hold positions to the north.

(Fontenoy lies north of the Aisne and Belleau wood is immediately northwest of Chateau Thierry.)

The text of the War Office communique follows:

"We attacked the German positions this morning between Fontenoy-Sur-Aisne and Belleau wood.

"We progressed at certain points from two to three kilometres, taking prisoners.

"There is no change in the situation on the Marne and in Champagne.

"Southwest of Nantheuil La Fosse we stopped a violent onrush by the enemy.

"North of Prosnes guard troops attacked our positions, but were completely repulsed."

The salient which extends from Fontenoy down to Chateau Thierry and around to Rheims is a deep semi-circle, with the Germans holding the centre of the arch.

On the eastern side of this semi-circle the great German drive pushing eastward and striving to drive in south of Rheims.

The western side of this semi-circle is nearly vertical, running north and south.

Should the allies be successful in pushing through on this line, they would take the Crown Prince's great forces in the rear and compel the Germans to make a disastrous retreat.

"We Gave Them Hell!" Declares the Wounded in Hospitals After Battle

By JOHN McHUGH STUART, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Paris, July 18.—"We sure gave 'em hell," is the triumphant note on the lips of American wounded, who have just been brought to Paris hospitals from the Marne front.

After the first shock the Americans began counter-attacking west of Chateau Thierry with their old-time pep.

After the first ten minutes American artillery dominated the situation.

A Kentucky "doughboy" told of a sergeant, who was an expert rifleman, picking off twenty-five Germans as the Germans were crossing the Marne.

Artillery fire was directed towards the Marne bridges and many German ammunition trains were sunk.

A Polish private from Chicago said his company was moved up from a supporting position. They came in contact with machine guns and captured one, killing an officer and wounding another.

Eight Americans came across eight Germans dressed in American uniforms and two others in French uniforms. The Americans were going to join, not discovering the deception, but the Germans fired at close range. The Americans jumped in and killed all of the Germans.

A soldier from Louisiana first saw eight Germans on the bank of the Marne. An officer, who was standing by, saw them also and remarked:

"Let's get 'em!"

The two "went over the top" and "got" the Germans before the barrage fell.

A Philadelphian left his dug-out five seconds before it was destroyed by shell fire.

The people of Norwood today protested against paying $1.85 per 1,000 cubic feet of gas. Their selectmen petitioned the Gas Commission for a public hearing on the rate. The new rate went into effect February 21.

New German Drive in North Expected As Next Move of Enemy

By BERT FORD.

With the American Army behind the British front, July 17.—(delayed).—The possibility of a new German push in the north is now realized. Prince Rupprecht is known to have a strong reserve force opposite the British lines and there is speculation as to whether he will send them south to continue the offensive east and west of the Rheims or will strike at the British front.

Many anticipate the latter course. British experts are pleased with the power and spirit of the Americans and French. The crumbling of the enemy drive on the first day, it is pointed out, will have a moral effect highly injurious to the Germans.

British officers and men alike are impressed by the fighting qualities of the Yankees in every department and American airmen are receiving flattering praise.

All England rejoices at the rapid arrival of our troops.

GOES UNDER KNIFE TO GET INTO MARINE CORPS

After being rejected three times for war service on account of a physical infirmity, Francis G. Weaver of Roxbury submitted two weeks ago to an operation and came into the Marine Corps recruiting station much improved and was accepted. Lieutenant Bernard J. Doherty, recruiting officer, was pleased at his determination to get into service. "You're a man," he said, "You're the type of a man that the country can afford to honor. You're no slacker."

MAINE AVIATOR WINS BRILLIANT BATTLE

By HENRY G. WALES, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

With the American Army at the Marne, July 17.—(Night)—Colonel-General Von Schmittow, who commanded the Germans when Riga was captured from the Russians, is believed to have planned the present offensive on the Marne-Champagne front.

General Von Conta and General Von Langer are commanding the Germans opposing the Americans.

The enemy staff work remains excellent, but the operations are not carried through as well as formerly, owing to the decreased morale of the troops.

There was no infantry activity today on the American front.

American airmen have taken an active part in the fighting.

Sub-Lieutenant Abernathy of West Pembroke, Me., who shot down a German two-seater before being driven down himself in No Man's Land by a German single-seater, received on his base with a thrilling story. After shooting up a German transportation train that was crossing a Marne river bridge at Dormans, Abernathy engaged the German two-seater. One of his tracer bullets entered the German pilot's head and the German machine shot downward like a plummet.

Another German machine came up and the pilot's fire cut the controls of the American's plane. He was forced to land in No Man's Land. The signal was given to the Krupp gunners and they set about to destroy the airplane with artillery fire. Abernathy crawled into a shell hole, and in the darkness escaped to the American lines. He had a second narrow escape for he came near being shot by a Yankee sentry because he did not know the countersign.

Aviator John McArthur of Buffalo shot down a German two-seater above Dormans.

ALIEN ENEMY ARRESTED ON DELINQUENCY CHARGE

FAMOUS DEACON GIRLS' MOTHER, PARIS TRAGEDY FIGURE, DEAD

BEAUTIES WOOED BY NOTABLES

Former Wife of E. P. Deacon of Boston Passes Away in Rome

Mrs. Florence Baldwin, formerly Mrs. Edward Parker Deacon of Boston, mother of the Princess Radziwill and central figure in a romance and tragedy that stirred two continents, is dead in Rome. She was fifty-eight years old.

In 1892 Deacon shot and killed Emile Abeille in the apartments of Mrs. Deacon at Cannes, France. Abeille was a club man and a former attache of the French legation at Washington. His attentions to Mrs. Deacon had been the cause of many quarrels between the couple, although her friends maintained that they were no more marked than the attention which the beautiful blonde from Boston was attracting on all sides during her residence in Paris.

Baldwin, the name under which her death is reported, was her maiden name, resumed after her divorce from Deacon following the tragedy at Cannes. The husband was found guilty of manslaughter and sentenced to a year's imprisonment; but in view of the motive for the crime, one which has always appealed strongly to the emotional French temperament, President Carnot pardoned him after a few months.

DIED AT WAVERLEY.

He immediately sued for divorce and in the course of the proceedings grave charges were made by both sides. A few years later Deacon lost his mind completely and finally died in the McLean Hospital at Waverley in 1901. After a brilliant career on two continents, his funeral was attended by only two persons—his brother and William P. Blake of Boston, who had been his guardian since his mind became unbalanced.

Florence Baldwin was only seventeen and Deacon forty when they married in 1877. It was said she was the most beautiful woman in France. They had four daughters—Dorothy, who became Princess Radziwill; Gladys Parker, who was said to have enjoyed, along with Geraldine Farrar, the distinction of captivating the Crown Prince of Germany; Edith and Ida Audrey. The last-named died in Florence in 1904.

The love affairs and triumphs of the pretty daughters of the Deacons have occupied columns of news and cable dispatches. Dorothy's husband, Prince Radziwill, a Russian, was at one time mentioned as the possible future ruler of Poland under the Russian regime. On one occasion the Princess, costumed for a masked ball, drove a chariot with horses onto the ball room floor, creating a sensation both for daring and for picturesqueness.

WOOED BY CROWN PRINCE.

As to Gladys, rumor had it that the Crown Prince wished to marry her, but that the imperial "mailed fist" of the Kaiser intervened. She was successively engaged to the Baron Antoine de Charette, who she jilted, and the Prince of Lichtenstein. And it was rumored at various times that she was sought in marriage by James Hazen Hyde, one-time vice-president of the Equitable Life Insurance Company, and Lord Francis Hope, divorced husband of the actress, May Yohe.

While in London she was taken up by the Duchess of Marlboro, formerly Consuelo Vanderbilt, but it was said to have been the cause of separation of the Duke and Duchess on account of the latter's jealousy of the Duke's attention to the beautiful American girl.

Edith, a sculptor, married Henry G. Gray, a lawyer of New York, two years ago. She was at one time engaged to George Lee Peabody of Boston, who died as the result of a sunstroke. While in Europe three years ago, engaged in service for the American Ambulance Corps, she was reported to have been shadowed as a spy, and appealed to the American Ambassador to Italy, Thomas Nelson Page, for protection from annoyance.

DESERTS TO CALL ON GIRL, BUT FOUND HER DEAD

Atlanta, Ga., July 18.—Dewey Morgan, twenty, deserted the 116th Field Artillery at Macon to come to Atlanta and visit his sweetheart. When he arrived in Atlanta he found the young woman, Leona Moore, had been dead twenty-four hours. He will be tried as a deserter.

Wife of Wilson's Stenographer Is Proud of Husband

Washington, July 18.—Just a mere slip of a girl-wife is Mrs. Charles L. Swem, wife of the President's confidential stenographer, who has obtained the President's permission to enlist in the aviation service, but—

"I am proud of my husband. What he is doing is right and splendid."

Thus she spoke, with pride in her voice.

Having already resigned, young Swem expects to don the khaki about August 1. Mrs. Swem and chubby-faced Charles, junior, probably will leave Washington about the same time and live in New Jersey during the time he is at war.

Though less than twenty-five years of age, Mr. Swem undoubtedly knows more of the inside history of America's part in the war than anybody in Washington outside of the President. He has been with Mr. Wilson ever since the latter assumed the presidency.

LIEUT. MAGRUDER AND HIS BRIDE ON HONEYMOON

Among the wartime Summer brides, whose wedding a week ago Wednesday was of much interest to the younger social set of Boston and the South Shore, was Miss Esther Hosmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Hosmer of Bay State road, who was married to Lieutenant John Holmes Magruder, Jr., U. S. N., at the Episcopal Church, near the country home of her parents at Marion. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Olmstead, headmaster of the Pomfret School. The bride was unattended. Sidney Hosmer, her brother, was best man.

Mrs. Magruder has been active in war work. After a short honeymoon the bridegroom will return to the U. S. S. Mississippi.

MAN SHOT TRYING TO EVADE ARREST

Paaul J. Nobel, forty-three, colored, of No. 28 Windsor street, South End, was shot in the knee by Patrolman Augustine J. Miner of the Roxbury Crossing station following a chase through the streets of the South End after he had escaped from the policeman who had arrested him.

Nobel was walking along Shawmut avenue with a heavy burlap bag on his shoulder. The bag was found to contain about seventy-five pounds of brass, for which Nobel refused to account. When informed he was under arrest, Nobel became desperate and, knocking Miner down, escaped. A chase followed through Sterling street to Washington street. Just as the fugitive reached the corner of Washington street a bullet from Miner's revolver struck him in the knee and he collapsed to the street. He was taken to the City Hospital, where he was placed under guard.

TWO AUTO VICTIMS WITHIN FEW MINUTES

Two auto victims were taken to the City Hospital within a few minutes of each other today, one dangerously hurt. He has concussion of the brain and multiple injuries. Samuel Levine of No. 11 Decatur street suffered minor injuries when struck by a car driven by Anna Mussman of No. 28 Greennock street.

EVERETT BUDGET CUT CAUSING CONCERN

Whether or not the aldermen of Everett will concur with the Common Council in the budget, which cut $1,900 from the salaries in the Public Works department, is causing some concern to members of that department. Should the cut be approved by the aldermen, it is understood there will speedily be some vacancies in the Public Works department.

CASCARA BARK NOW BRINGS RECORD PRICES

Chehalis, Wash., July 18.—The highest price in the history of the cascara bark industry is now being paid for this much-valued product. The season for peeling is now in full swing and hundreds have been attracted to the industry by the 10½ cents a pound now being paid. The bark is extensively used for medicinal purposes.

NEW SWINDLE DEVELOPS IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

Vancouver, B. C., July 18.—County police in the farming sections of British Columbia are hunting for a number of clever crooks who have been imposing fines on farmers for having too much meat, flour or other provisions in their possession. One farmer reports having been fined $25 by one of the supposed inspectors who had been fed by the farmer and housed all night. At breakfast the visitor was served with bacon. The fine was then imposed for serving meat on a meatless day.

BROCKTON SHOE STRIKERS ARE PATRIOTIC

Statement Says They Have Sons and Brothers in Front-Line Trenches

Brockton, July 18.—A statement given out by the striking shoe cutters today contains the following paragraph.

"We have sons and brothers in the front-line trenches in France and not holding soft jobs like the sons of some of the manufacturers."

The statement was one prepared in condemnation of stories being circulated that there was German propaganda back of the strike. The statement added:

"We have bought Liberty Bonds and have contributed to war work. We are more patriotic than the people who attempt to spread these stories about us."

The strikers are cutters who seceded from the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union and formed an independent union. They claim to have 2,500 men out. They have been receiving $25.50 a week. They demand $37.50 and recognition of their new union by the manufacturers.

The strikers rejected at a mass meeting today the proposition received yesterday from the general executive board of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union that they return to work and let negotiations with the manufacturers be carried on by the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union.

They issued a statement that any settlement must be made through the new cutters' union.

After the rejection vote, Mayor William L. Gleason arrived. He is president of the cutters' local.

He declared he was talking as Mayor of the city and not as a labor official. He said he hoped for speedy settlement and felt it could best be made through the union.

The Joint Shoe Council, composed of delegates from the thirteen locals of the Boot & Shoe Workers' Union, which voted disapproval last night of the strike, appointed a conference committee, of which the Mayor is a member. This committee conferred with the Manufacturers' Association this morning and was scheduled to talk with the executive board of the strikers' union later in the day.

WOMAN INJURED BY RUNAWAY TAXICAB

Miss Annie Gerber, twenty-three, of No. 68 Intervale street, Roxbury, was knocked down and injured by a driverless taxicab which ran across the street in front of No. 3 Tremont row.

The machine, which belongs to the Boston Motor Cab Company of No. 55 Bickerstaff street, was in charge of Arthur L. Spaulding of No. 68 Pearl street, Brookline, who had left it standing in front of No. 3 Tremont row.

For unknown reasons the machine started, partly turned around and went across the street, striking Miss Gerber and smashing a plate glass window in the store at No. 97 Court street. Miss Gerber was taken to the Haymarket Relief Hospital, where it was found that she had a fractured left leg and contusions and abrasions of the body.

TISHA B'AB OBSERVED IN BOSTON SYNAGOGUES

Hundreds of Jewish men and women packed the synagogues and temples of Greater Boston to usher in with solemn prayer and fast the Tisha B'Ab, a solemn day on the Hebrew calendar, set aside for lamenting the loss of Hebrew independence and life as a nation. Special services were held, war sermons delivered, Zionism and the restoration of Jerusalem discussed from the pulpit, and appeals were made in behalf of Jewish war sufferers and Palestine colonists. Features of the services were the offering of prayer for the triumphant outcome of America and the Allies in the war.

GERMAN PAPER ENRAGED AT SUCCESS OF YANKEES

Paris, July 18.—The North German Gazette, enraged at the American success on the Marne says "the Americans' cannon fodder is incapable of battling the war-hardened Germans," according to a dispatch from a Swiss source today. The newspaper declares that America is powerless to instruct a sufficient number of men and to get them to the front in time. The Frankfurter Zeitung was quoted as saying that the object of the offensive is "to strangle Itheims."

Folks in Manchester, Eng., Wonder at U. S. Troops

London, July 17.—Describing the arrival of American troops at Manchester, the Manchester Guardian says:

"Fresh from a nineteen days' sea voyage and unaccustomed to ceremonial parades, an American artillery regiment went imperturbably about its business.

"The calmness of the proceedings were twice interrupted, first when a little girl crept under the barrier and smilingly passed her father's cigarettes, and later when the Lord Mayor, with his three-cornered hat and clad in a scarlet cloak, related the victory won by the Americans. They then gave a tremendous cheer. The Lord Mayor, in his address, said the Manchester men who were unable to join the reception would welcome the Americans at the front."

SHUMAN'S WILL IS CONTESTED BY SON

George H. Alleges Discrimination Against Him by Boston Merchant

George H. Shuman, son of A. Shuman, has announced his intention of contesting the will of his father on the ground that in disposing of his property the testator unjustly discriminated against George and in favor of the five other children of A. Shuman. The matter was brought to the attention of Judge Prest today, who appointed Colonel William A. Gaston as special administrator of Mr. Shuman's estate during litigation.

Mr. Shuman made outright gifts of $250,000 to each of his sons, Edwin A. and Sidney E., who were associated with him, and also gave them the lease of the building occupied by A. Shuman & Company, which does not expire until 1935. Mr. Shuman further provided that the two sons should have for three years the use of his capital invested in the business.

Trust funds of $200,000 each were provided for the benefit of Mrs. Emma S. Weil, Mrs. Bessie S. Steinert and Mrs. Theresa S. Ratshesky, daughters of Mr. Shuman, who are to have the income during their lives and the right to dispose of the principal by will.

Another trust fund of $200,000 was created, out of which Andrew Shuman, a grandson of A. Shuman, and son of George H. Shuman, is to be paid annually from the income the sum of $2,000 until he reaches the age of thirty years, the balance of the income to go to George H. Shuman during life. At the termination of that trust on the death of George H. Shuman the principal is to constitute a part of the residue of the estate.

Under another clause of the will Andrew Shuman and other grandchildren, when they arrive at the age of thirty years, will each receive $10,000.

The trustees of Mr. Shuman were directed to hold the residue until the death of the last surviving child of Mr. Shuman, and during their lives to pay the net income to them in six equal parts, one of which will go to George H. Shuman. The will is so framed that the grandchildren eventually will get the benefit of the entire residue left by Mr. Shuman.

DOUKHOBORS PARADE IN GRATITUDE FOR RAIN

Grand Forks, B. C., July 18.—As a demonstration of thankfulness for rain, 600 Doukhobors, clad in "nature white" garments woven from flax and wool by their own women folks, paraded the streets here. For three miles the colony of men, women and children trudged bareheaded and barefooted in the pouring rain. Their only covering was the long, flowing garments reaching from shoulders to knees.

At one point the leader addressed a curious throng, declaring his followers are living on fifteen cents a day, and urged all others to do likewise, so as to have money for war purposes.

EVERETT Y. M. C. A. DRIVE FOR MEMBERS

Everett Y. M. C. A. will start a membership campaign Sunday, July 28, continuing for the remainder of the week. The association has lost nearly 30 per cent. of its membership through entrance of Everett young men into the service. All of the clergymen will make announcement of the campaign from their pulpits on the opening day of the campaign. A meeting of the campaign committees will be held Saturday evening to make final plans.

The second account of the State Street Trust Company, executor of the estate of Oliva Howard Griffith, late of Milton, for the sum of $2,699.32, has been allowed in the Norfolk County Probate Court. This sum, according to the account, has been expended between January 1, 1917, to December 31, of last year. The balance of the estate now on hand is $34,533.

SOUTHBRIDGE MILLS RUNNING AT NORMAL

Worcester, July 18.—Business is practically normal at Central Mills, Southbridge, where on Monday 250 weavers, loomfixers, etc., walked out because their demand for a 15 per cent. increase in pay was not forthcoming. They spurned the firm's offer of a voluntary 10 per cent. increase.

Two-thirds of the employes left their benches on the strike order, but the others stuck to their work.

RETAIN CONFIDENCE IN GOD TO WIN, SAYS KAISER

Geneva, July 18.—The Kaiser, in thanking Secretary of State Roedern for the voting of the new German war credit, was quoted in a Berlin dispatch today as saying: "It is proof that the people in the rear are backing up the army. Germany will be invincible if it remains conscious of its force and maintains its confidence in God."

DEMANDS BRITAIN ACT AGAINST ALIEN ENEMIES

London, July 18.—Under the caption: "Warning to Lloyd George," Lord Northcliffe's Evening News demands deeds instead of words in dealing with the alien enemy question. The article closes with the statement that "There are no such scandals in America, but Americans understand they are fighting for their lives. We apparently do not."

Woman Rescues Two; Diving Into Water Fully Dressed

Scituate, July 18.—Kicking off her shoes, Mrs. George B. Gavin of Braintree plunged fully dressed into the surf here and rescued a drowning woman and man.

Miss Margaret McDonnell, a maid employed at the Dow home at Humarock Beach, went beyond her depth. The surf swept her still further out. Children on the beach gave the alarm.

A chauffeur named Stephen plunged into the water to aid the woman. When he reached her she threw her arms about him. They both sank and had gone down a second time when Mrs. Gavin dived into the water. Mrs. Josiah Stickney threw a life preserver, which Mrs. Gavin carried out with her. Meanwhile Stephen had wrenched himself free from Miss McDonnell's grasp. Mrs. Gavin told him to swim to shore and she would look out for Miss McDonnell. The chauffeur managed to get back without further aid. Mrs. Gavin put the life preserver on Miss McDonnell and towed the latter ashore.

WOMEN ENLIST TO TRAP FOE SUBMARINES

200 Will Work in Co-operation With Uncle Sam's "Watchdogs of the Sea"

London, July 18.—Declaring that the recent successes of the American and allied navies against the U-boat menace were due in large measure to the work of England's valiant little "women's navy." Dame Katherine Furft, executive head of the Women's Royal Naval Service, in an exclusive interview, urged the organization in America of a similar auxiliary to the navy.

"A recruiting campaign is now under way in Ireland," she said, "to induce Irish women to join an American naval auxiliary force. Eventually," she said, "there will be a contingent of at least 200 women and girls in Ireland working in co-operation with Uncle Sam's 'watchdogs of the sea.'"

Feminine keenness of perception in handling a certain submarine detecting device makes women far more valuable than men in this respect, she said.

Some three thousand women have already entered the women's royal naval service. Each takes the place of a man released from shore duty for active service at sea. So far none of the women have been called upon for sea duty, but it is expected that they will be called upon later.

In addition to the young women who operate the delicate instruments for detecting the location of submarines, the exact nature of which cannot be stated for obvious reasons, there are women radio operators, code experts, telephonists and clerks.

The "WRNS" also has women working as stenographers, chauffeurs, cooks and waitresses around naval barracks and headquarters. Others are aeroplane experts, who repair the navy's hydroplanes.

Members of the service are paid by and are under the supervision of the Admiralty Board. Each applicant is sent to school to specialize in the branch of service she selects. They study at the men's naval training school at Crystal Palace and the courses last from five weeks to six months.

"America must mobilize and train a woman's auxiliary service," said Dame Furft, "and the sooner she starts the better. American women are alive and eager for national service. Don't make the mistake we made by waiting. Strike while the iron is hot.

"Now is the time to enlist them."

Dame Furft began the organization of the "W. R. N. S." six months ago and she hopes to see it grow to a membership of 20,000 or more. She formerly was an officer in the "Vads" (Volunteer Aid Detachment), another branch of English women. She received the title of Dame in the Order of the British Empire for exceptionally important national service.

CARNEGIE STEEL PLANT POURS METAL ON SUNDAY

New Castle, Pa., July 18.—When the Carnegie Steel Company plant here poured steel on a recent Sunday it was said to be the first time in the history of the steel industry in the United States that this was done on a Sabbath during the Summer months. The plant was closed on the Fourth of July, and in order to catch up with the work the men volunteered to work on Sunday.

Sleeping Carpenter on Roof Angry When Rescued

Members of the Waltham fire department received a jolt when they were summoned to a house on Prospect street on a still alarm. An entirely new situation confronted them.

A carpenter had been busy shingling the steeply-sloping roof of a house. Later he proceeded to go to sleep on the roof.

Horrified citizens saw him when, apparently, a slight move in his sleep would result in a bad fall.

It was up to the firemen, assisted by the police, to rescue him. After careful manoeuvring they succeeded in getting him to the ground.

Were they thanked? No, the rescued one had things to say about those who mixed themselves up with other people's naps.

MARINES BLOCK SHIPMENTS BY BOLSHEVIKI

Transportation of Raw Materials from Vladivostok to Petrograd Prevented

Paris, July 18.—Thirty-five thousand Lithuanians, the bulk of them Russian veterans, led by General Kilimaitis, are reported to be marching on Petrograd. The Bolsheviki troops are said to have been defeated at Vitebsk and to be retreating in disorder.

Washington, July 18.—Efforts of the Bolsheviki to transport raw materials and munitions from Vladivostok to Petrograd have been halted completely since the allied marines were landed to guard the great warehouse, according to John J. Borkowski, a civil engineer, who is in Washington to offer his services to the Allies or the United States.

Mr. Borkowski was born and educated in Petrograd and spent most of his time in engineering projects in the Far East since he left the engineering school. Up to two months ago he was in charge of the Department of Harbor for the city of Vladivostok, in which capacity he aided in the construction of harbor improvements costing about $4,000,000, of which $1,250,000 was expended in the erection of a great machinery shop for the assembling of locomotives to be shipped from America to Russia. He also supervised the construction of new piers and docks and warehouses, the latter of 60,000 square metres in area.

AGITATORS CAUSE TROUBLE

In discussing the conditions leading up to the present situation in Vladivostok, he said:

"We went forward with our work, and there was no trouble of any sort until last March, when delegations of Bolsheviki arrived in Vladivostok from Khabarousk, the eastern headquarters of the party. At once these agitators began to foment trouble among the working classes, and finally in May reached a point in power which enabled them to take over the State banks. Thereafter, one could withdraw money from these saving banks only by paying a bonus to the miscreants who were placed in charge.

"The workingmen were persuaded to drive out their employers, the latter moving to China and Japan. But the workingmen soon found that they could not conduct their plants and eagerly besought the former employers to return.

CLOSE FACTORIES.

"The employers, realizing the political conditions, refused, and scores of the factories are closed. As a result there is much suffering. All food is imported from China and Korea, and if the boundaries of these countries were closed to Siberia famine would quickly follow. The cost of living is very high; shoes cost $75 a pair, and an ordinary business suit $300. Linen cannot be purchased.

"Vladivostok is a city of 40,000 souls. One-fifth are Bolsheviki, one-fifth are anti-Bolshevists, and the remainder refuse to take part in any way in politics. They ask only that a strong government be formed and business resumed.

"In all, I believe that private interests and the governments of the United States, Great Britain and Japan have sent $500,000,000 worth of goods to Vladivostok.

GOODS STOLEN.

"About half of these goods have been shipped away or stolen by the Bolshevist leaders. It is generally believed in Siberia that the goods have gone to the Germans. The goods include rubber, fats, cotton, materials for the manufacture of gunpowder, high explosives, shrapnel, resin, automobiles, airplanes, engines, machinery of various sorts, tools and farm machinery.

"No locomotives were sent to Siberia from the United States, and the great assembling plants we built have never been used. These plants have a capacity of turning out eight locomotives a day. The dock facilities permit of the tieing up of thirty steamers at one time."

Mr. Borkowski favors a military intervention, to be followed by economic commissions, and insists that the great mass of the people will rally to the support of any government initiated by the Allies.

ACCUSE ROXBURY MAN OF WOUNDING POLICEMAN

Concord, July 18.—The local police feel sure that they have the man who attacked with a knife and badly wounded Patrolman Patrick Varley of the local police here two weeks ago. Chief Craig arrested Matthew Moreno of No. 20 Wheeler street, Roxbury, and after a hearing he was held as a witness. Later developments led Chief Craig to lodge a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon with intent to kill against Moreno.

PORTSMOUTH PRESIDENT FOR A. F. OF L. BRANCH

Keene, N. H., July 18.—At the convention of the State Federation of Labor today Richard Cooney of Portsmouth was re-elected president and Charles H. Bean of Franklin secretary-treasurer. The next convention will be held at Rochester.

PROVIDENCE "VICTORY SHIP" ON TRIAL TRIP

Providence, July 18.—The Coyote, the first wooden "victory ship" built here, has departed on her trial trips and will soon enter the cargo-carrying service of the government. The Coyote is a steamship, and a sister ship, the Hokah, is almost ready for preliminary trials.

C. H. WRIGHT OUT FOR LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR?

Announcement That He Will Not Seek Council Re-election Stirs Political Friends

Charles H. Wright of Pittsfield, senior member of the Governor's Council, today announced that he would not be a candidate for re-election.

This announcement at once caused the assumption to be made that Wright would be a candidate for the Republican nomination for lieutenant-governor.

His entrance into the field would make a three-cornered contest, Speaker Cox of the House of Representatives and former Councillor Guy A. Ham are already campaigning assiduously.

It has been hinted that friends of Governor McCall have been pleading, without success, with Mr. Ham to retire in favor of Congressman Alvan T. Fuller. The theory of the McCall strategists is that Governor McCall and Mr. Fuller, campaigning sympathetically, could win the solid support of the liberal element of the Republican party.

Some of Mr. Fuller's friends insist that he will be a candidate for re-election to Congress.

United States Senator John W. Weeks will shortly open campaign headquarters in the Scollay Building. The preliminary work in Governor McCall's campaign against Senator Weeks is being done from the offices of Campaign Manager Charles S. Baxter. Governor McCall is expected to return from his Summer vacation next week.

A formal announcement of Colonel William A. Gaston's candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Governor will come, his friends say, on Saturday.

Richard H. Long of Framingham, meanwhile, is campaigning actively in Essex and Middlesex Counties. He has twelve open-air rallies. He will speak tonight in Lowell, Lawrence, Andover and Methuen.

STATES TO CO-OPERATE ON HEADLIGHT LAW

Massachusetts and Connecticut today shook hands on an agreement for a joint prosecution of reckless autoists who violate the dazling headlight laws. Robbins B. Stoeckel, commissioner of motor vehicles, sent word that his inspectors reported to him if they decided to enforce the law they probably could round up from 50 to 100 Bay State autoists in the Nutmeg State every night. The local commission decided to co-operate with Connecticut.

NEW WORKMAN'S LAW FAILURE, SAYS KENNARD

One year of trial has been sufficient to prove that the new law which enables an injured workman to select his own physician to care for him is a failure, according to Chairman William W. Kennard of the Industrial Accident Board. Mr. Kennard told the recess Committee on the Workmen's Compensation Law that "the incapacity of injured workmen has been needlessly continued because the men do not receive treatment from the experienced physicians of the insurance companies."

CAMBRIDGE MAN FINED FOR RECKLESS DRIVING

For reckless driving, Edward E. Crandall was fined $25 in the Cambridge District Court today by Judge Almy. On July 15, at the corner of Massachusetts avenue and Everett street, Crandall crashed into the car of William Crane, the builder, who is putting up the barracks for the United States Radio School on Cambridge Common, damaging Crane's new car and injuring the owner. Crandall was arraigned on three counts. The other two, of speeding and of not making a proper turn, were placed on file.

Slayer Held Without Bail

Paul Codispoti of East Saugus, in Chelsea Court today before Judge Bosson, charged with the murder of John Garrioti of No. 16 Hinchman street, Boston, was held without bail for the Grand Jury. Carrioti was fatally shot in the house at No. 23 Floyd street, Revere, Sunday evening, and Codispoti was arrested after a sensational chase the length of the beach.

'Little Pinkie' Blamed for Marital Troubles

New York, July 18.—"Little Pinkie" was the cause of her marital troubles, declared Mrs. Helen Singer through her attorney to Supreme Court Justice Lehman in seeking alimony and counsel fee pending trial of her suit for separation from Bernhard Singer, wholesale dealer in paper and twine.

Mrs. Singer's affidavit said:

"My husband and 'Little Pinkie' corresponded regularly and frequently in an endearing, confidential and serious manner. In March, 1917, he disappeared, and I did not hear from him until recently, when I was informed by others who had seen him that he asserted that he had obtained a divorce in Reno—although I knew nothing about such a proceeding—and had married 'Little Pinkie' in June and was summering with her in Atlantic City."

Mrs. Singer claimed her husband, whom she married in 1913, tried to bargain with her to learn how much money she would require "to release him from his marriage vows."

UNITED STATES FEEDING THE WORLD WITH MEAT AND CEREALS

By International News Service.

Washington, July 18.—America has fed the world this year with 3,011,100,000 pounds of meats and fats and 240,000,000 bushels of cereals, according to a summary of the work of the Food Administration, submitted in a report to the President by Food Administrator Hoover, and made public today.

These figures represent an increase of 844,600,000 pounds of meats and 80,000,000 bushels of cereals over the preceding year.

"No one can deny," wrote Hoover, "the dominant part of the American woman in attaining these figures, and the American people should feel with definite satisfaction for the remarkable measures they have attained this year in feeding our allies' armies, our armies and the civilian populations of the nations fighting Germany."

The report shows that despite an unusually small grain crop last year —7 to 9 per cent below normal—this country increased its wheat exports by 80,000,000 bushels and its meats and fats by 844,600,000 pounds.

The total value of these exports purchased through or in collaboration with the Food Administration, amounted to $1,400,000,000 and were shipped to the allies, military and naval establishments, our own war making branches, the civilian people, the Belgian relief and the Red Cross.

In the last half of the year, Hoover wrote the President, our exports of meats to the allies were 2,133,100,000 pounds as against 1,268,500,000 pounds for the same period of the preceding year.

"This compares," he wrote, "with an average of 567,000,000 pounds of total exports for the same half years in the three-year pre-war period.

"The total shipments to allied countries from our last harvest of wheat will be a total of 134,500,000 bushels of prime breadstuffs. In addition to this we have shipped some 10,000,000 bushels to neutrals dependent upon us.

URGENT REQUEST FOR WHEAT.

"The exports to allied destinations during the fiscal year 1916-17 were: Wheat, 135,100,000 bushels, and rye, 2,360,000 bushels, a total of 137,460,000 bushels. In addition, some 10,000,000 bushels of 1917 wheat are now in port for allied destinations or en route thereto."

"The allied food controllers," he reports further, "sent an urgent request for further shipment of 75,000,000 bushels of wheat from the 1917 crop. This was exceeded by approximately 10,000,000 bushels, all of which represented actual saving on the part of the American people, who deserve especial credit in view of the small wheat crop."

The wheat figures are 240,800,000 bushels for 1917-18 as against 259,-900,000 bushels for 1916-17 and the meat figures are 2,011,100,000 pounds for 1917-18 as against 2,166,500,000 pounds for the preceding year.

WOMEN BIG AID.

"I am sure that the millions of our people," ends Hoover's letter, "agricultural as well as urban, who have contributed to these results should feel a very definite satisfaction that in the year of universal food shortages in the northern hemisphere, all of those people joined together against Germany have come through into sight of the coming harvest not only with health and strength maintained, but with only temporary periods of hardship.

"The European allies have been compelled to sacrifice more than our own people, but we have not failed to load every steamer since the delays of the storm months last Winter. Our contribution to this end could not have been accomplished without effort and sacrifice, and it is a matter for further satisfaction that it has been accomplished voluntarily and individually.

"It is difficult to distinguish between various sections of our people —the homes, the public eating places, the food trades, urban or agricultural her son.

Billion Dollar Food Shipments Abroad by Uncle Sam!

Outstanding features of Food Administrator Hoover's report to the President, made public today, are:

America has shipped to the allied countries during the fiscal year just ended, foodstuffs valued at $1,400,000,000.

Meats and fats totalled 3,011,-300,000 pounds, or an increase of 844,600,000 pounds over the preceding year.

Cereals and cereal products totalled 259,900,000 bushels, or an increase of 80,900,000 bushels. Of the total there were 131,000,000 bushels of wheat and 13,900,000 of rye.

The request of the allied food controllers early in the year for a further shipment of 75,000,000 bushels from our 1917 wheat crop has been met and exceeded by some 10,000,000 bushels.

Consumption and waste in food have been greatly reduced in every direction during the year.

SAYS VON BURIAN TRIES TO FOOL HIS PEOPLE

Serbian Commissioner to U. S. Tears the Mask from Austrian Duplicity

By VOYSLAV M. VOVANOVITCH, Special Serbian Commissioner to the United States.

Washington, July 18.—The note of Baron von Burian proves once more how strongly the traditions of language and thought are rooted in the Habjatz and how the school of diplomacy founded by Metternich has not changed even in our time.

No political or military event, no matter how important, is capable of changing these statesmen who consider themselves wonderfully clever by the use they make of their pseudo-"good nature" and their sugar-sweet amiability which hypocritically cover the cynical designs of their mentalities, which belong to a bygone age.

Four months ago, Count Czernin, in a similar effort, which signally failed, tried at the very moment that the Central Powers were cutting the throat of Russia and Rumania at Brest-Litovsk, to stimulate sympathy for the ideas of the Allies and if possible sow dissension among them and lead astray certain naive idealists on our side.

WITH THE SAME PEN

It is with the same pen of hypocrisy and the same ink of cynicism that Baron von Burian tries, not so much to make a sort of "peace offensive" into our camp as—driven with his back to the wall—to defend himself against the rising tide of the peace offensive coming from our side, the growing murmur of discontent and almost of revolution from the oppressed nationalities of Austro-Hungary, the Czecho-Slovaks, the Southern Slavs, the Italians, the Rumanians and the Poles.

Baron von Burian pretends this time that he admired the "genius of President Wilson" with whose ideas he says he is nearly in accord. In the first place, it must be pointed out that his declaration is not an advance made to the United States, for Baron Burian knows very well the applications to the dual monarchy of the ideas of President Wilson. The Secretary of State, Mr. Lansing, stated very clearly in his two recent and memorable declarations that these were the complete independence of the Austrian Slavs, which is the only logical application of the principle of the self-determination of peoples.

TO DECEIVE PEOPLE.

And when Baron von Burian pretends that he is almost in accord with the President, it is no longer with a view of deceiving the Allies in general and the Americans in particular—he has lost all hope of being able to do this—it is rather in order to deceive the people of Austro-Hungary, who are discontented and threaten revolution.

For, at bottomy what he means is not that he is nearly in accord with President Wilson, but that—in order to discourage the Slavs and other non-German and non-Magyar nationalities—President Wilson is nearly in accord with him. It is for domestic consumption that this last piteous attempt at political camouflage—as naive as it is hypocritical—of the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister is destined.

It is a good sign for us that he is thus forced to utter this cry of distress this whole declaration is like the man who whistles in the dark to keep his courage up; as is a proof that the recent declaration of Mr. Lansing and the whole American scheme of propaganda is bearing its fruit and that it has found the weak spot in the armor of Baron von Burian.

CLAIM $1,450 LOSS IN GAME, BUT LOSE AGAIN

Blackstone, July 18.—After Hassan Wielex and Isman Isiee had spent a whole day trying to convince Judge Francis M. Thayer that they had lost $1,450 in a crap game to Abdula Hamed and John Amard through the use of loaded dice, the court was also convinced. Moreover, Judge Thayer fined them $5 each for Sunday gaming, making their total expense for the game, assuming that they were right, $1,460.

"A Change of Tune!"

By PAUL HARRIS DRAKE.

"Gott strafe England." Fritz yelled
When first the war he started,
But now he's crying, "Gott mit uns"—
For Fritz and "Gott" have parted.

Four years ago the tune Fritz sang
Was called a "Hymn of Hate"—
Today—the tide of battle changed—
He's blaming cruel fate.

When first he started out to bead
The World unto his will,
Fritz cultivated ruthless hate—
That hate is growing still!

With almost superhuman zeal
The Allies learned to "strafe";
While Fritz, who set the pace at first,
Already gets the laugh.

'Twas not so very long ago
Fritz sang of "Uber Alles";
Today Fritz seems a trifle blue;—
(He must be getting careless).

When, months ago, his tune was bold
(The war had just begun),
Fritz chortled glibly, "Gott mit uns,"—
But NOW—God help the Hun!

ROYAL J. DESHER, who has gone across border to train with Canadian expeditionary forces.

Rejected by U. S., Will Fight for Old Glory With Canadians

"If I can't serve my country and the Stars and Stripes directly, then I'll serve them indirectly."

With this for his watchword, Royal J. Desher, of No. 34 Albion street, South End, after being rejected for service on account of the change in physical requirements made recently by draft boards, has enlisted in the Canadian expeditionary forces, and left for training quarters over the border.

Desher was formerly assigned to Class 1A and expected to be called July 22, having passed the local board examinations under the old requirements. When the height and weight requirements were raised he found himself no longer eligible for immediate service, although he applied in every department of the army and navy.

Assigned to Class 5 he decided to join the Canadian troops rather than wait.

Cocoanut Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.—Advertisement.

THOUSANDS SIGN SUFFRAGE PETITION

VICTORY IS NEAR FOR BALLOT

American's Appeal to Senate Finds Gratifying Endorsement in All Sections of City

Response to the suffrage appeal of the Boston AMERICAN and other Hearst publications throughout the country continues to be hearty and gratifying.

Thousands of signatures have been obtained in Boston alone during the past two weeks, and every day new recruits to the already long list of enthusiastic petition signers are constantly added.

Volunteers and paid workers engaged in rolling up a great flood of signatures to the AMERICAN'S petition to the National Senate to pass immediately the Susan B. Anthony Amendment report cordial and sympathetic support from the thousands of citizens who are approached every day by this small army of energetic boosters of the "cause."

In certain large factories and office buildings nearly every occupant or employe stands ready to sign the petition, and little argument is needed to persuade the average man or woman of the urgent necessity of all friends of equal suffrage presenting a concerted demand for the speedy ratification of the Anthony Amendment.

LONG FIGHT NEAR END.

Sustained effort on the part of every suffrage worker is called for by the present emergency. The long fight which the women of the United States have waged for the ballot appears to be nearly won. Prominent suffragists declare that the required two-thirds majority for suffrage in the Senate is already assured, and are only waiting for a favorable opportunity to bring the question to a verdict.

The vexatious delay caused by the anti-suffrage Senators who resorted to a filibuster to prevent the Anthony amendment coming to a vote on June 29, has only deepened the ardor and intensity of the popular demand that the Senate take favorable action on the measure before taking a Summer recess.

The interim caused by the postponement of the decisive vote has been improved by the suffrage forces of the country to the utmost. Advantage of the delay has been taken to bring to bear every ounce of public opinion obtainable, in the hope of forcing the reactionary Senators to revise their opinions before the amendment is again on the Senate calendar for action.

Washington has been literally deluged with letters and telegrams urging favorable action on the measure. Hundreds of thousands of signatures to petitions demanding ratification of the amendment at the present session of Congress have been sent in.

President Wilson, among the first to sense the importance of passing the suffrage bill as a war measure, has basked himself day and night in the effort to line up every possible Senator who can be persuaded to vote in favor of the amendment. The President's untiring efforts in behalf of the bill bid fair to become historic along with his championship of other democratic reforms.

FITZ SIGNS PETITION.

A high school boy met John F. Fitzgerald, former Mayor of Boston and now candidate for the United States Senate, at the Back Bay Station today and asked him to sign the petition. Mr. Fitzgerald said: "Do you know who I am?" The boy said "No." Mr. Fitzgerald then told the boy who he was and signed the petition.

In this State there are two United States Senators who will not vote for the amendment, and here is a candidate who publicly states that he is in favor and signs the petition.

Inasmuch as the time may be short in which to add your appeal to the tide of appeal which is sweeping the country for suffrage the reader of these columns is urged to sign the accompanying petition and forward it without delay to the "Petition Editor," No. 8a Summer street, Boston.

Commendation of the AMERICAN'S untiring efforts in bringing to pass the expected adoption by the required number of States of the Susan B. Anthony amendment, is expressed in many letters received by the AMERICAN.

Some of those who approve the stand which this newspaper has taken, and who lend their voices to the already thunderous appeal for equal suffrage, are as follows:

CHARLES E. DUNN, sheriff for Aroostook County: "I believe in the suffrage question and am a firm believer in woman's suffrage. I believe the women should have the right of ballot."

JOHN W. STUBBERT, President of the City Laborers' Union of Worcester: I think the laboring men of Worcester are practically unanimous in favor of the suffrage bill now before Congress and I am pleased to add my indorsement of the AMERICAN'S campaign to aid its passage. The women of the nation have proven their mettle when war burdens have been thrust upon them and no sane man can doubt but that the much lighter burden of the ballot will be as effectively undertaken and carried through to as successful a conclusion as their war activities. Many of our city laborers have signed the petitions printed in the AMERICAN and have forwarded them to their representatives.

HENRY ABRAHAMS, member Boston School Committee: I enclose a signed petition from the AMERICAN, and am glad to sign it, because it is right. The women of the United States will never get equal wages with men until they possess the ballot. Equal suffrage is in the direct line of human progress everywhere. It needs but to be stated to be seen to be a fact that all persons eligible to citizenship should have equal rights, privileges and responsibilities.

PETITION TO THE SENATE FOR A SUFFRAGE AMENDMENT

PETITION to the Senate to Support the President of the United States and Pass the Suffrage Amendment in Accordance with the Request of the President of the United States.

TO THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES:

The President says that the Suffrage Amendment should be passed as a just recognition of the work American women have done for the support of the war. We agree with the President.

The President says that this Suffrage Amendment is a necessary war measure; that it will help to win the war.

Senators, that alone is surely reason enough why you should vote for the amendment.

Senators, your petitioners urge you to stand by the President and to heed his advice, and to vote for the Suffrage Amendment both as a war measure that will help us to win victory sooner and as an act of high justice to the patriotic women of the United States.

FORTUNE MADE BY MEANS AS BOCHE AGENT

Chicago, July 18.—Revelations of how he and other Americans made fortunes working as German agents in America before this country entered the world war were made in Probate Court by Gaston B. Means, who is testifying for Mrs. Mary Melvin in her efforts to probate the so-called "second" King will, by which she is a legatee to a fortune of $2,000,000. Means was recently acquitted of the killing of Mrs. Maude King, sister of Mrs. Melvin.

MADE MONEY OUT OF GERMANY.

"I made money out of the Germans—lots of it, and so did others," he testified.

"At the time I had $95,000 in a lock box in a New York bank; on other occasions I had more."

Means related a million-dollar transaction with Captain Boy-Ed and for the first time made public the reasons he says Captain Boy-Ed was sent back to Germany by the United States government.

"I was working for the German interests," testified the witness, "and at one time we planned to buy up the electric boat situation in the country. We had planned to buy all the plants manufacturing these boats. A man named Wells, one of the biggest engineers in this country, was in our employ at $100 per day. The Allied governments were having these boats made here and we discovered they were having emplacements for guns made in them.

"They were being used by the Allies to sink submarines. I got one of the contracts and showed it to Boy-Ed.

"'My God,' Boy-Ed exclaimed, 'the building of these emplacements is a breach of neutrality.'

"He took the contract and went before the Neutrality Board at Washington. Very soon afterward he was ordered out of the country."

PAY LEFT ON TOMBSTONE

The witness testified his pay was usually left for him on a tombstone in Trinity Churchyard, New York, or would be handed to him there in a package. He told of having received $1,300,000 in this manner, explaining it was to be used in carrying on the campaign of pro-Germanism.

"I made lots of money out of the Germans," said Means, and added: "So did lots of other Americans who were yelling 'Pro-Germanism.' Some of them were the biggest lawyers in New York."

CURTAIL SUPPLY OF STEEL FOR AUTOMOBILES

Washington, July 18.—Representatives of the automobile industry and the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, who have been in conference with the War Industrial Board here, have been notified that they cannot expect more than 25 per cent steel allotment for the coming year.

"The country, it was told them, is facing a severe shortage of steel. The estimates of the government's own needs for the remainder of the year run between 20,000,000 and 21,000,000 tons, while the greatest production of steel for a similar period is 16,500,000 tons.

In addition to the Government's requirements, other industries rated by the Priorities Board more essential to the war have large needs.

"The Government must have 100 per cent of its own steel needs," is the word of the board. "After that if there should be any surplus, it will be allotted on the basis of priorities."

Members of the board warned the automobile people a year ago that their product would have to be greatly curtailed, and urged that they transfer the character of their output into the war essentials. Some of the larger concerns manufacturing high-priced cars did this, but many companies refused or ignored the suggestion. It is these latter who are being hit hardest now.

Hugh Chalmers of Detroit headed the automobile delegation. It is reported on the highest authority that the session between them and Chairman Baruch of the board was extremely heated.

The automobile people tried to see Fuel Administrator Garfield, who has put them on a 25 per cent. allotment.

Complete tieup of nonessential industries dependent upon steel supplies is imminent, though the Government in considering the immediate construction of additional steel mills to relieve the scarcity.

COLORED TROOPS OF U.S. REPULSE ATTACK

Learning of Expected Blow in Another Sector, Request That They Be Put Into Action

With the American Army on the Marne, July 18.—The American colored fighters, who are acquitting themselves splendidly in the latest drive of the Germans, are participating in the battle at their own request.

The colored troops were occupying a quiet sector when word was received that the enemy was about to strike. The negroes immediately requested that they be transferred to the scene of the expected fighting and their request was granted.

This is the first time the colored men have seen heavy action, and they are acquitting themselves well.

Their commanding officer, who is white, was in a hospital many miles to the rear of the fighting lines suffering from a broken ankle. When he heard that the offensive had been resumed he summoned an automobile and over the emphatic protests of his doctors, he raced back to his organization, which already was in action, and took command.

Three officers who also had been in bed in hospitals with influenza rejoined their units.

MALDEN COUPLE AGAIN TO BRAVE U-BOAT TERRORS

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schofield and their sixteen-months-old son, Parker Fall, who will defy German sea raiders in trip to South Africa.

Mrs. Emma Fall Schofield, the only woman member of the Malden School Board, has tendered her resignation to the board, and will once more defy the far-reaching U-boats and sail Saturday for South Africa with her husband, Albert Schofield, who has business interests there. Their sixteen-months'-old son, Parker Fall Schofield, who was born in South Africa, will accompany them.

Mrs. Schofield is a well-known suffragist. She was elected to the school board three years ago, after she and her husband had sailed for South Africa, the latter going to purchase wool. She later tendered her resignation when it was found that she would be unable to return to this country for some time because of the activities of the German U-boats. The resignation was never received by the board.

The Schofields were exiled for three years, returning home last Spring. Mrs. Schofield has attended but three meetings of the School Board.

Mrs. Schofield visited Washington a few days ago for the purpose of gaining permission for herself and young son to accompany Mr. Schofield on the trip.

When the passport arrived from Washington recently the name of Mrs. Schofield and her son were scratched off. It is believed the officials realized the trip was too dangerous for Mrs. Schofield and her child. Mrs. Schofield refused to remain at home, however, and the trip to Washington resulted in her gaining her point and the passports were secured. The trip will be made via Australia.

Mrs. Schofield is the daughter of former Mayor and Mrs. George H. Fall of Harnden road, Malden.

STORROW ASKS CITY'S AID IN FUEL PROBLEM

Urges Boston to Look After Its Poor Through Municipal Coal Yards

The city of Boston, through its storage facilities in yards and buildings, and through its laborers and teams for distribution, can help the fuel administration in the problem of distributing coal among Boston's poor next Winter.

Such was the gist of an answer given today by James J. Storrow, Federal Fuel Administrator for New England, to the question whether or not it was feasible for the city to maintain coal pockets for supplying the poor.

In his statement today Mr. Storrow emphasized the point that the National Fuel Administration has fixed New England's proportion of the estimated mine yield, that what Boston would receive was up to the miners and carriers and that we should get enough coal if the fuel and railroad administrations and the Federal Shipping Board could "make good" on their coal program.

SAYS THEY CAN HELP.

Mr. Storrow's statement in the question of a city coal pocket and of city assistance in coal distribution was as follows:

"The problem in which the poorer sections of Boston have a more vital concern than their more fortunate neighbors has to do with the distribution of the coal after it gets here. If I am asked whether the city of Boston can help the Fuel Administration in this all-important problem of distribution, my answer is 'yes.' I think the city can give great assistance along these lines and that it is entirely feasible that it should do so.

"The city will receive from the Fuel Administration officials whatever co-operation they think they need for us, and we are bound to welcome any plan the city authorities are able to formulate that will aid the Federal Fuel Administration for Massachusetts and the Boston Fuel Committee in their task of securing an equitable distribution in Boston of the city's allotment of coal.

MANY SMALL DELIVERIES.

"Boston has yards and municipal buildings located in all sections of the city, and laborers and teams that can be utilized to a considerable extent. With its city-wide organization, it should be able, it seems to me, to perform a highly valuable service very well.

"The Boston Fuel Committee, during last winter's coal crisis, distributed more than 6,000 tons of coal in 100-pound lots from fourteen emergency stations and thereby averted much acute suffering.

"The strictest kind of conservation is the only safe course for us here in New England. If householders of Boston make up their minds to do it, they can save 20 per cent. of the amount of hard coal burned in previous years."

SHIPPING COAL RAPIDLY INTO NEW ENGLAND

3,125,000 Tons of Anthracite Already Sent Here—Bituminous Sets Record

Washington, July 18.—Coal production is maintaining the pace set in recent weeks. For the week ending July 13, the bituminous production set another record, being in excess of 12,000,000 tons, and more than 400,000 tons above the previous high mark.

For six weeks past, excluding the Fourth of July week, when there were but five working days, the weekly bituminous production has exceeded 12,000,000 tons, which previous to that had been regarded as impossible. This output has been reached despite reduced labor forces due to the withdrawal of many thousands of men in the draft. The Fourth of July week showed a margin over 10,000,000 tons. Previously 6,000,000 had been a liberal allowance for that week.

Conditions in New England are improving steadily. Approximately three and a quarter million gross tons of anthracite passed through the gateway during April, May and June. The total allotment for the year there amounts to 10,331,000 gross tons. If the present movement continues to November 1, eight months' shipping will have been accomplished within seven months.

New York city received during the same three months slightly more than its allotment.

The outings will continue every Sunday until September. The first was held at the South Shore home, and in charge of, K. Gutman; the second at the Summer home of Mrs. L. S. Goulston, Jr., Swampscott, and the third on the lawn of Mrs. Reginald Strauss' Summer home at Clifton.

Major King had been living with Mr. Johnson and family. Captain Baker and his men placed Johnson under arrest and he was taken to the Belair jail. Major King was removed to the post hospital.

11,000 FOR MERCHANT SERVICE IN 4 MONTHS

More than 11,000 recruits for the merchant service training corps of the U. S. Shipping Board have been secured in the past four months, according to a statement today from Henry Howard, director of recruiting for this service. The men are being trained on four ships stationed at East Boston. A smallpox scare on one of the ships, the former Transport Meade, developed when a sailor was discovered to have an illness which bore symptoms of the scourge. The case was later diagnosed as chickenpox.

RETURNED NANTUCKET SOLDIER DEAD FROM GAS

Baltimore, July 18.—The death of Private Chester Dunham of Nantucket, Mass., has been reported at base hospital No. 2, Fort McHenry. Dunham was one of the early arrivals at the hospital from France. FRENCH GIRLS TO STUDY IN SPRINGFIELD

Will Take Up U. S. Business Methods in a Two Years' Course

Springfield, July 18.—From ten to fifteen French girls are coming to Springfield about September 1 to live in Springfield homes for two years and to learn all about American business methods.

It is expected that an international custom will be thus established that will be continued indefinitely, and that perhaps after the war a reciprocal measure may be adopted whereby American girls may go to France for two years' work or study.

Captain Edward Paix and Miss Schoell of the French high commission are making arrangements for the reception of the young women here. The project is being handled locally by a committee of the Chamber of Commerce, headed by Ralph W. Ellis.

The girls will be chosen from the best families in France and preference will be given to the daughters of dead or disabled officers. Miss Benton, dean of Carlton College, Minnesota, will choose the girls to be sent here. She is now in France, representing fifty women's colleges in this country which will give 100 scholarships to French girls. The girls will be from sixteen to eighteen years of age and will have the equivalent of an American high school education. They will come here for two years' work in business administration at the High School of Commerce.

Captain Paix came nere to buy some machinery. He was so much impressed by American business methods that he expressed the wish that French girls might have the opportunities for training that American girls enjoy.

R. I. CARMEN WAIT ACTION BY WAR LABOR BOARD

Strike Vote Withheld Until Committee Returns From Capital With Report

Providence, R. I., July 18.—Rhode Island carmen voted at a mass meeting today to withhold a strike until a delegation of their officials, who leave for Washington tonight to lay their grievances before the National War Labor Board, return with a report. In spite of this temporary standstill the situation here is critical.

The five Federal trustees of the road, who have steadfastly refused to hold any negotiations with the War Board, say that they will go to Washington if cited, but declare that they cannot pay any award even should the War Board grant it to the men.

About 1,500 carmen out of the 2,500 employed attended today's meeting, at which feeling ran high, many of the men clamoring for an immediate strike. They are now receiving 37 cents an hour, and ask for 60 cents an hour, but it is understood that they would be willing to compromise for less. For several days representatives of the men have been conferring with the trustees, but the latter have refused to submit to arbitration. If their attitude persists the men will strike.

In view of the fact that James H. Vahey of Boston and William D. Mahon, international president of the Street Carmen's Union, will appear before the War Labor Board Monday afternoon in behalf of the Bay State carmen, the Rhode Island carmen's officials will ask that they be heard at the same hearing. They will also ask that the federal trustees of the Rhode Island road be cited to appear at that time.

The committee representing the men consists of James H. Coleman, business agent; Christopher R. Daniels, secretary; Attorney John J. Fitzgerald, and John H. Reardon of Worcester, an international officer of the union.

The five federal trustees of the Rhode Island company were appointed three years ago, and given five years in which to dispose of the property. They have steadily opposed State ownership.

FORMER LYNN WOMAN IN LABOR DEPARTMENT

Miss Mary Anderson, whose appointment as assistant chief of the new Woman's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor has just been announced, was a former worker in a Lynn shoe factory, and while there was president of the women's local union. Miss Anderson is the first trade union woman appointed to an administrative office in a national executive department. She is a member of the executive board of the International Boot and Shoe Workers' Union and has been for seven years organizer for the National Women's Trade Union League, with headquarters in Chicago. She also holds the position of vice-chairman of the Washington committee of the National Women's Trade Union League.

Mrs. Patrick A. Collins of Lynn, formerly Miss Mary T. Walsh of the Cathedral parish, who has just announced her wedding.

Friends of Miss Mary T. Walsh in the Cathedral parish have just learned that she was married on April 3 to Patrick A. Collins of Lynn.

The news became known among her Boston associates when she visited her former home at No. 13 Upton street, South End.

The bride was formerly a telephone operator in Boston. She was identified with the religious and social set of the Cathedral parish.

Mr. Collins, who is a cigar salesman on the road, is one of the leading members of Lynn Knights of Columbus.

WISE TELLS WHY HE QUIT THE O'LEARY CASE

John J. Withdrawn From Stand to Give Way to Former U. S. District Attorney

By International News Service.

New York, July 18.—John J. O'Leary, on trial charged with conspiracy to aid the escape of his brother, Jeremiah O'Leary, was withdrawn from the witness stand today to permit former United States District Attorney Henry A. Wise to explain his letter of withdrawal from the defence of Jeremiah.

It was the last paragraph of Wise's letter that Prosecutor Barnes questioned particularly. He wanted to know if Mr. Wise had ever received any impression that the government was persecuting Jeremiah. He said he had not.

When asked about his statement as to the "bitter attitude of government officers" and where he got the impression, he said he did not wish to mention any particular instance. He stated positively that neither from the Department of Justice here nor at Washington had he got any impression that Jeremiah was being prosecuted. He was then excused.

John J. then resumed the stand and denied statements of Arthur Lyons as to automobile rides, visits to his mother's home and to the Hudson terminal in connection with the sudden departure of Jeremiah.

LYNN MEN TO TAKE STRIKE ACTION TONIGHT

One hundred and fifty employes of the Campbell Electric Company of Lynn voted today to hold a mass meeting tonight at which strike action will be taken. The call for the meeting followed the discharge of an employe who, it was claimed, was discovered talking organization to a fellow employe. The company is engaged to 90 per cent. of its capacity on X-ray apparatus for use of the American Red Cross units behind the Western front in France.

TWO BOSTON MEN HELD FOR TROLLEY ASSAULT

Portland, July 18.—James J. Gillen, 19, of Boston, and Joseph P. Kehoe, 21, of Boston and Hartford, were arraigned in the Municipal Court today charged with assault with intent to kill Oscar M. Holman, a street car conductor, early Monday morning. They pleaded not guilty and were held in $10,000 each for a further hearing on July 27. Holman is still in the hospital and was unable to appear in court.

Motorcycle Officer M. J. Fitzgibbons of Dorchester today had Alfred D. Lee of North Weymouth and Martin Fisher of Quincy, in court on charges of speeding with their autos. They were fined $20 each. NEW WELLESLEY FARM SQUAD ON THE JOB

Despite a Bad Weather Start, "Farmerettes" Will Keep Busy on Crops

John W. Smith, Esq., is "in bad" with the second squad of Wellesley College "farmerettes."

J. W. is the well known and more or less popular weather administrator for this long-suffering section.

The second squad of college farm girls followed the first squad yesterday. Before their first day was over the weather man had given them one of his regular afternoon rains.

The farm "hands" figured: "Well, now he has that off his mind we hope he will give us sunshine today for good outdoor work."

But today's skies scowled darkly at the girls when they responded for work today, and they scowled back. The girls will be at the farm a month. If Brother Smith doesn't improve the quality of his weather output he will never get the Wellesley College farm vote.

There are thirteen "farm hands" in this scond squad, with three girl housekeepers. They are at work on the twenty-acre college farm on Weston road in Wellesley.

The work-day program is a hustling one, thus:

5:30 a. m.—Get up.
6:00 a. m.—Breakfast.
6:30 a. m.—Go to work.
9:30 a. m.—Five minutes rest, also sandwich.
Noon—Dinner.
1:45 p. m.—Back to work.
4:45 p.m.—Call it a day.
7:00 p. m.—Supper.
8:30 p. m.—All quiet.

The three housekeepers are: Rita Pond, 1919, Providence; Lillian Miner, 1920, Naugatuck, Ct.; Sibyl Wardwell, 1921, Waban.

The farm workers are: Charlotte Barstow, 1919, Wollaston; Gertrude R. Bristol, 1918, Foxboro; Christine Dickson, 1920, Pittsburg, Tex; Hope Mathewson, 1921, Chelsea; Alice Munro, 1920, Princeton, N. J.; Rachel Rathbun, 1920, Woonsocket, R. I.; Martha Richardson, 1920, Montague; Margaret Shedd, 1920, Newton Centre; Marjorie Stone, 1918, Providence; Genevieve Thomas, 1920, South Orange, N. J.; Evelyn Wiggin, 1921, Stratham, N. J.; and Edith Wilkey, 1920, Cambridge.

LUCY DALY TO HELP RELIEF FUND

The appearance of Lucy Daly Ward at the Stage Women's War Relief benefit tomorrow afternoon at Ye Wilbur Theatre, as an added feature of the regular performance which William Rock and Frances White, with Jack Gardner and the New York Clef Club, will give for this worthy cause, recalls some very interesting reminiscences which would fill columns of special local interest, had we the space, but we are reminded of a very important turning point in her career which has an important bearing on her present standing as a great local favorite, although she has retired from the stage.

But first it should be noted that Lucy Daly, of the famous Daly family of Boston—which included her brothers, Dan Daly and Captain Bill Daly—now equally well known as Mrs. "Hap" Ward (the Ward of Ward and Vokes), who would be sadly missed by many a tourist who looks forward to her greetings as hostess at Ferncroft Inn, will make her reappearance on the stage on this occasion for the purpose of singing the official song of the Stage Women's War Relief, "One for All and All for One."

The crowded attendance promised for tomorrow at this special performance will have a rare treat indeed in hearing Lucy Daly's rendition of this song, which is so full of Yankee "pep" and already so popular with the soldier boys "over there."

But what it was the intention of this story to recall was this: Some twenty years ago or so—Lucy Daly does not like to be reminded of it—Lotta Crabtree, who is also one of the executive committee of the local Boston branch of the Stage Women's War Relief in charge of tomorrow afternoon's benefit performance, had put her brother, Jack Crabtree, in charge of the Park Theatre, which she then actively controlled. "Jack" decided to put on a Summer show, entitled "The Golden Wedding." They secured for a cast what they considered some good prospects in the way of entertainers. Outside of three vaudeville headliners, many of them had been prominent in musical comedy, some had never been heard of, and some had simply achieved a slight fame in chorus parts.

The vaudeville headliners were James and Bonnie Thornton, and J. W. Kelly (the Rolling Mill Man); the others were Lucy Daly, Dan Daly, Jennie Yeamans, Christie McDonald, Andrew Mack, Raymond Hitchcock. All of them afterward became stars. Some have passed away, some are still stars. While Lucy Daly and Dan Daly had already achieved considerable reputation at that time through Daly's "Vacation Days" and "Upside Down," Christie McDonald and Raymond Hitchcock were then unknown, and Jennie Yeamans married C. B. Dillingham, then the dramatic critic of the New York Evening Sun, and this was his introduction to the theatrical fame which he has attained today as a producer and theatre magnate.

SERVICE NOTES

The Rev. C. H. Parker, an Episcopal minister, of Washington, D. C., has been appointed chaplain at the Radio School at Cambridge and has already assumed his duties.

Cooks who can make bread out of any kind of flour are much needed in the tank service. Second Lieutenant J. R. MacMillin, recruiting officer, who has already a number of men for this service, says, "We're getting a fine lot of men, but we need good cooks as well as blacksmiths. With these, we'll be able to make a good and efficient tank service."

Two hundred men are expected to arrive this week at the Radio School, University of Vermont, Burlington. Major Murray B. Dilley of the school speaks highly of the men who are taking this course. The out-going class is one of the most efficient of its kind.

Brigadier-General John W. Ruckman, commanding the Department of the Northeast, made an address before the citizens of Salem at their All-Day Patriotic Rally.

Rear-Admiral Spencer S. Wood and Mrs. Wood, accompanied by Captain James P. Parker and aide, Ensign C. H. Crosby, made a trip to Hingham. The Admiral inspected the naval school in that locality.

DRAFTEES TO BE GIVEN SPEEDY EXAMINATION

New System at Devens Will Eliminate Delays—Unfit Men Go Right Home

Camp Devens, Ayer, July 18.—A new system will be in effect for officers of the personnel department for the reception of the draftees to arrive next week from every New England town, following a visit to camp of an official from Washington assigned to the War Department.

On arrival at the receiving station the men will be given a preliminary examination for contagious diseases and will then be sent for a complete examination at a depot, where there will be a corps of medical examiners.

If a man is unfit for military service he will be sent to an office of the quartermaster where he will receive his transportation home.

On preceding drafts men have been obliged to remain for weeks in some instances before their cases were acted upon by the military authorities.

15,000 IN NEW QUOTA.

The men will commence arriving Monday and 3,000 will be received a day until the quota of 15,000 is quartered in the depot brigade.
tached to headquarters as chief of staff of the 76th Division, has left for Camp Dodge, Ia., where he will fill a similar office. Commissioned officers attached to headquarters bade him farewell on his trip.

Sergeant-Major Hyman Rosenfield of Woonsocket has been assigned to the First Development Battalion and Sergeant Carl A. Thornquist of Winchendon has been made a lieutenant in the trade test section.

Miss Marion E. Lamb of Dorchester, former assistant to Dr. James Mallery at the City Hospital, will report to the Base Hospital for service in the department of pathology and bacteriology.

HAD IODINE IN POCKET.

The body of Henry Wood, twenty-eight, of Groton, missing from his home since Saturday, and who committed suicide by jumping from the Red Bridge back of the rifle range into the Nashua River, was recovered and ordered removed to his home after having been viewed by Medical Examiner Buckley.

The water was shallow where Wood jumped. He fell a distance of about forty feet, striking his head on a rock. He had a bottle of iodine in his pocket which had been unopened.

LIEUTENANT FRANCIS X. PHELAN, Boston boy who has won commission as lieutenant by his work in France.

Boston Boy's Work Wins Commission as Lieutenant

Francis X. Phelan, a Boston boy and the nephew of James J. Phelan, the banker, has by his work in France won a commission as lieutenant in the American army, according to word which his friends have just received.

Lieutenant Phelan has already seen much active service in France, and his promotion comes as a recognition of his ability and courage. He is widely known in this city.

30 ABSENTEES SENTENCED AT AYER

Given Three Months Each at Cantonment Guard House—Another Gets Six Months

Camp Devens, Ayer, July 18.—Thirty men assigned to the depot brigade, who had been arrested for desertion, tried by a court martial and found guilty of being absent without leave, have been sentenced to serve three months each at the cantonment guard house. Sentences were ordered by Major C. B. Rucker, summary court officer.

Private Warren E. Stewart of Company E, 301st Engineers, has been found guilty of being absent without a pass and sentenced to six months. He left camp May 10 and was arrested at Glens Falls, N. Y., brought back and tried by court martial.

A special training class of 100 men has started for Camp Benjamin Harrison for instruction in trades and, after completing the courses, will be assigned to duty at the front.

Sweethearts' monument, which is supposed to be a memoriam of women to their soldier sweethearts, has been completed and it is planned to dedicate it on Saturday.

Enlisted men of the camp claim the monument should stand as their tribute to women, as the entire work was done by them, while the original plan was to have women carry field stones. None of the fair sex, however, ever appeared.

One lonesome soldier in camp will receive a letter today from a woman of Stratford, Conn., who wrote asking that the letter be given a lad not receiving many letters, or who might not have a relative or friend to correspond with. The letter is at the Depot Brigade headquarters, and will be delivered today.

The body of Louis Mazzuechelli of Milestone, Conn., who was killed in a railroad accident at Providence, R. I., will be sent to Milford, N. H., to his brother, Antonio, of Nashua street. The victim was a member of the 11th Company, Depot Brigade, and had returned home on a forty-eight-hour pass.

Several nurses at the base hospital, who are yet to become citizens of this country, must become naturalized to hold their positions. Only citizens of friendly and neutral countries are employed.

Two lieutenants, formerly of the Fifth Depot Brigade Battalion, but transferred to an overseas unit, have a service flag flying in their honor at the battalion headquarters.

RADIO STUDENTS PLAN BOXING EXHIBITION

"Happy Hour" Program at Harvard to Include Bouts by Amateur Performers

Some 4,000 or more members of the United States Radio School at Harvard were put in fine humor when the announcement was made that a "happy hour" will be held in the Hemenway Gymnasium next Saturday night.

The chief portion of the "Happy Hour" program is generally boxing bouts with a wrestling match or two thrown in. Milder and less exciting sport is furnished by talent from the school, and by the members of the Radio Band or the Jazz Orchestra.

Boxing is one of the most essential assets in the victorious game of hunting the Boche, and it is so recognized by all the officers of the school. The majority of the bouts put on at the "Happy Hour" are between men who lack the professional trimmings, but furnish lots of good boxing and are dead game, just the type of chap that is needed to hand out that final wallop due Kaiser Bill and his bullies. The boys are young, in perfect physical condition, and delight in the opportunity to let loose a little excess energy in the three two-minute bouts they are called upon to battle.

With the movie stars in town this week, the students at the school are hopeful that Marguerite Clark, Annette Stewart or some of the male performers may be guests at Saturday's "Happy Hour." It isn't customary to allow women to attend the shows, but the ban would be undoubtedly temporarily lifted if the screen favorites could be tempted to grace the gym with their presence.

A good bill is assured. The final number on the program is always "The Star Spangled Banner."

EX-DARTMOUTH COACH APPOINTED CAPTAIN

Worcester, July 18.—Frank W. Cavanaugh, formerly coach of Dartmouth College football team, has been named captain of Battery E, 102d Field Artillery in France. He has been lieutenant of the company since it left this city for the front. He practised law in this city prior to becoming a soldier.

KNITTING BAGS HIDE MAINE WHISKEY

Bangor, Me., July 18.—Women's knitting bags figure as one of the latest "camouflage" methods to conceal bottles of intoxicating liquor from the new Sheriff Thayer and his deputies.

It is figured that there is $100,000 worth of whiskey alone hidden in and around this city.

The methods adopted to conceal liquor stock are infinite. Among the secret means are such as the following:

Trick stairway-treads, which move on when springs are pressed.
Sliding mantel shelves.
False partitions.
Double floors.
Old wells, converted to alcoholic pits.
Garments suspended from clotheslines, with bottles tucked in pockets or pinned to sleeves.
Tree-tops.
Cradles.
Stoves.
Bibles.
Grain sacks.
Women's skirts and knitting bags.

TOPERS GET SHOCK.

Bangor topers sustained a hideous shock when a "cache" of 281 bottles of whiskey was uncovered in the tall grass back of the Sewer Department's storehouse.

Workmen, who stumbled on it, notified the police. The shock to topers was double; not only was the whiskey lost to their consumption, but it was only by mere chance that some of the liquid set had not discovered the liquor in time to take it for his own use.

The "cache" was most artless. Any thirsty one, passing that patch of grass day after day, might have chanced upon the precious hoard. Topers fairly gritted their bone-dry teeth when they heard the news.

Home distilleries are reported to be in operation in effort of maintain the dwindling stock. There is profit, too, for the illicit distiller, with most any kind of "red eye" selling up to $7 a quart.

Louis De Lare, a Hudson hermit, has been bound over for the next Federal court on a charge of making "moonshine."

His case arose this way: Sheriff Thayer and deputies, while investigating complaints that Daniel Flagg was making and selling cider of "offensive" vigor, arrested De Lare.

They said that they found De Lare running a "still" in his cellar for production of corn whiskey.

MOONSHINE LIKE DYNAMITE.

The product of private "stills" is made from a mash composed of corn, potatoes and molasses. The net result is described as a liquor that outclasses "T. N. T.," the famous explosive chemical, in dynamic energy and effect upon the human emotions.

Materials are plentiful. The financial inducement is large enough to make [illegible] raiders.

JUST wherein lies the reason for the use of vegetable preparations for infants and children?

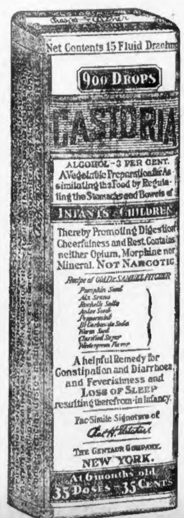

Why are any but vegetable preparations unsafe for infants and children?

Why are Syrups, Cordials and Drops condemned by all Physicians and most laymen?

Why has the Government placed a ban on all preparations containing, among other poisonous drugs, Opium in its variously prepared forms and pleasing tastes, and under its innumerable names?

These are questions that every Mother will do well to inquire about.

Any Physician will recommend the keeping of Fletcher's Castoria in the house for the common ailments of infants and children.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Letters from Prominent Druggists addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

S. J. Briggs & Co., of Providence, R. I., say: "We have sold Fletcher's Castoria in our three stores for the past twenty years and consider it one of the best preparations on the market."

Mansur Drug Co., of St. Paul, Minn., says: "We are not in the habit of recommending proprietary medicines, but we never hesitate to say a good word for Castoria. It is a medical success."

Hegeman & Co., of New York City, N. Y., say: "We can say for your Castoria that it is one of the best selling preparations in our stores. That is conclusive evidence that it is satisfactory to the users."

W. H. Chapman, of Montreal, Que., says: "I have sold Fletcher's Castoria for many years and have yet to hear of one word other than praise of its virtues. I look upon your preparation as one of the few so called patent medicines having merit and unhesitatingly recommend it as a safe household remedy."

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS BEARS the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

SOX AFTER ST. LOUIS CLEANUP

Barrows' Boys Anxious to Get Good Lead Before Opening of Detroit Games

By NICK FLATLEY

Leading the league has grown to be such a Red Sox habit that even the elements are with the team nowadays. Yesterday the whirlwind came, but it held off just long enough to let the Barrow brigade get in an abbreviated second pastime.

They won the short one by a 4-0 score, something after the manner in which they grabbed off the first one, 7-0.

The Browns won over in the running, though they are hatched hard to stall along with the showers made the completion of the dual bill an impossibility. They lose out, however, just as they lost out every other way during the afternoon.

The two teams were to play the final game of the series this p. m., with Bader and Davenport scheduled to do the hurling.

Barrow is having a tough time getting pitchers. Joe Bush was taken sick between the first and second chapters yesterday, and, for a time, it was feared he couldn't continue. He came back in time to pitch a shutout, but isn't feeling any too well. Some sort of stomach trouble is the answer. Sam Jones was affected the same way the day previous.

BABE GETS A SHUT-OUT.

With Bader sick, Ruth was necessarily shot into the breach, and waltzed off with the five-inning shut-out. He was up against Shotgun Rogers, who was pasted hard, but who really had no incentive to work hard, with his friends all biting the Sox runners go wild on the base in the hope that five innings would sever be played.

Wright was the victim in the opening tilt, and was hammered to a fare-ye-well by the lower end of the Boston batting order.

Some 2,000 fans took a chance that it wouldn't rain and watched the Sox make first place a bit surer. They had plenty of excitement, it might be mentioned, in the finale, which culminated in a fist fight between Wally Schang and Hank Severeid.

Wallie tapped out an infield hit in the fourth, and never did hesitate at first. The ball was chucked to Austin to stop him at second, and Jimmy immediately dropped it. He didn't try to catch it at all. Wallie kept going, while Jimmy walked after the again.

He streaked for home, but Jimmy's eventual throw beat him there by a block. As Wallie slid in, Hank put the ball on the back of his neck with much more force than grace. It was a regular K. O. swing.

SCHANG PUMMELS HANK.

After Schang had picked himself up he took a hop, skip and a jump at Hank. He wrapped one arm around the Browns's neck and prepared to smite him with his free hand. Hank countered with a couple of left jabs At this interesting juncture, players and umpires and announcer and everybody popped into the scenario.

The bickering athletes were pried apart and exiled, but not until they had shaken hands and declared that everything was lovely again.

Both were a bit peeved, Wallie because of the bump he got, and Hank on account of the casual way his crew were tossing runs at the Sox. Nobody was hurt and it furnished quite a bit of diversion for the gathering.

As regards the Ruth and Sisler batting duel, Battering Babe had all the better of it. He got a single in four efforts in the opener, and then poled out a pair of doubles in two shots in the second.

Sisler went to the saucer six times without getting a safe one. He did double in the sixth inning of the afterpiece, but as the game was declared null and void before the round was concluded, the blow didn't count.

RED SOX NOT TO GET FELSCH, SAYS COMMIE

Chicago, July 18.—White Sox officials, from President Comiskey down, laugh at the report from Milwaukee that Hap Felsch, deserting centrefielder, will join the Red Sox. Comiskey states that the report is too foolish to even be discussed. Yes, Ed Barrow can have Felsch, he can have Duffy Lewis, Ernie Shore and Dutch Leonard, with Babe Ruth tossed in for good measure.

BROOKS-ADAIR POST FORFEITS FOR BOUT

Representatives of Terry Brooks and Barney Adair, who top the bill at the Commercial A. C. tomorrow night, have posted substantial forfeits with the Boston AMERICAN as a guarantee that the two battlers will be on hand at the appointed hour.

Brooks and Adair make up one of the best teams from a slugging point of view that could be secured. Each has seen the other in action. Brooke against Johnny Martin and Adair against Shaver O'Brien, bouts in which both were winners.

Terry is confident and cocky over the prospects of meeting a boy who can and no doubt will slug with the newsboy.

Kid Lee, of Chelsea, is expected to put a stop to Charley Parker's winning streak—that is Lee's followers dope it that way. Lee will be aware of being in a fight whether he checks the South End boy or not.

Sailor Dentley, having to report back to his early tonorrow night, will try a hurry-up job at the expense of Jack Veto of Chelsea. Veto has been seen in action a few times, putting up good arguments each time. Dentley might report back to ship sooner than he figures.

Kid Francis the Lawrence kid with the "pep," and Eddie Barrell for eight rounds! Some action there all right. If they don't keep the fans on edge, we miss our guess.

Brassard Tonight at Revere; Nat Butler Has New Policy

The Brassard race, with Wiley, Madonna, Corry and Berger making up the field, features tonight's program at the Revere Cycle Track.

Rain caused another postponement last night and now Manager Nat Butler states he will book his next card for every night in the week and let it go the first clear evening.

In addition to the great hour grind, the usual card of amateur and professional events will be run off tonight. That's providing the weather is clear.

WINCHESTER SCENE OF THREE-DAY GOLF PLAY

A three-day golf tournament was carded to get under way today on the links of the Winchester Country Club. Patriotic prizes go to the players turning in the low gross net. The first sixteen are to play off for the club trophy; the second sixteen for the president's trophy, and the third sixteen for the directors' trophy.

PERCY GILBERT STARS ON BRAE-BURN LINKS

Rain drove the Harvard Club golfers indoors early, at their qualifying rival, held at Brae-Burn. As long as they were on the links, Percy Gilbert of the Country Club distinguished himself by turning in a card of 78. Save for Tom Kerrigan's 76, it is the best score of the season.

The players training Gilbert were: G. F. Freeman, 89—8—81; P. V. Bacon, 97—14—83; A. B. Denny, 100—16—84; M. L. Crosby, 95—9—86.

BRITT AND JACKSON ON NEXT AT ARMORY A. A.

Billy Miske, St. Paul heavyweight, has again ran out of his Boston booking with Kid Norfolk, Leo P. Flynn's dusky battler. Fortunately, Miske cancelled early this time. So next Tuesday night, at the Arena, instead of Miske and Norfolk, it will be Frankie (Young) Britt vs. Willie Jackson. They are to make 133 pounds at 9 p. m., with Larry Conley serving as referee.

Corbett's Corner

This is the ninth and final article of Mr. Corbett's series concerning the career of the late Stanley Ketchel, one of the most marvelous ring warriors of all time.

By JAMES J. CORBETT.

On May 17, 1910, Ketchel took on "Porky" Flynn, another heavyweight, and knocked him out in three rounds. Ten days later he sent Willie Lewis into oblivion in less than five minutes of fighting, and followed up that triumph by disposing of Jim Smith in five rounds.

"And now I am going to take a rest," announced Ketchel. "Continuous fighting has tired me a little. I want to recuperate. Late in the Fall I'll be ready to return to the ring and I'll take on everybody who wants to mix it with me."

But Fate ruled that Stanley Ketchel had fought his last fight; that the public which idolized him was never again to see him in action.

Through the Summer and early Autumn of 1910 Ketchel remained on the Conway, Md., ranch of a friend. Months in the open brought back Ketchel to the rugged condition of the earlier years, and about the first of October the great ringman, feeling within him again the longing for battle, decided upon a return to the ring as soon as a suitable foeman could be found.

VICTIM OF BLACKMAIL.

During Stanley's vacation several middleweights had risen to a point of ability where they figured they had a chance with "The Thunderbolt," and the champion was keen about taking them on.

Ali he was waiting for was a promoter to pick his foe and offer a real purse inducement.

"I'm in better shape today than ever before in my life," Ketchel wrote to his friends. "Watch me clean up the boys when I come back."

But Stanley Ketchel never came back.

On the ranch where Ketchel was rusticating was a farmhand named Walter A. Dipley, who, at that time, was working there under an assumed name. And the cook there was a woman supposed to be Dipley's wife.

The two, having heard that Ketchel had earned $100,000 or more in the ring, framed up, it was alleged, a sort of blackmail proposition on the great fighter.

On the morning of Oct. 15, 1910, Ketchel walked into the kitchen of the ranch house, but hardly had he entered it than Dipley confronted him.

RACE AGAINST DEATH.

Dipley addressed some insulting remarks to Ketchel, and for a while Stanley tried to laugh them off. But Dipley continued his abuse and finally Ketchel took a step toward him. With that, Dipley whipped out a revolver and sent a bullet plowing through one of Ketchel's lungs.

For the killing of Ketchel Dipley was sentenced to twenty years in prison and the woman, convicted of being an accomplice, also was sentenced to serve a term in the penitentiary.

As the bullet from Dipley's gun plowed through the lung of Ketchel the wonderful ringman toppled over. An internal hemorrhage followed almost immediately.

Perhaps if medical aid could have reached him at once his life might have been saved. But the ranch was located many miles from the nearest doctors.

Ketchel's friend hired a special train which was on its way to a hospital only a short time after the shooting took place and the train made wonderful time in its race against death.

But before its journey was ended, Stanley Ketchel, once of the greatest fighters of all time, had passed into the Great Belond.

Ex-Brave Tyler Is Hero of 21-Inning Game with Phils

Chicago, July 18.—In a twenty-one-inning game, the Cubs triumphed over the Phillies, 2 to 1. For seventeen frames the score was tied, 1-1, with Watson and Tyler pitching phenomenal ball.

The National League extra inning record was established last season when Brooklyn and Pittsburgh went twenty-two innings. Philadelphia and Boston established the American League record, in 1906, when they played twenty-four innings.

Only by calling out his reserves for the final smash did Manager Mitchell snatch victory. The game lasted four hours.

OLD ROAMER ANNEXES EMPIRE CITY FEATURE

New York, July 18.—Andrew Miller's Roamer won the Mt. Vernon Handicap, worth $3,000, at Empire City. Old Koenig was second and Papp third.

Roamer laid behind the pace to the head of the stretch, when he moved up fast. He shot into the front at the eighth pole and won going away. Papp led for three-fourths of the way, but then weakened.

Jockey Lyke piloted his second winner of the day in the fifth race when he scored with Elderkin.

BABE RUTH ONLY THREE POINTS BEHIND SISLER

Babe Ruth continues to make his presence felt in the American League batting race. He is now almost up with George Sisler of St. Louis; in fact, only three points behind him.

Ruth collected three hits in six times at bat in the double bill yesterday, while the Browns' first baseman was held hitless.

WALTER COCHATO WINS GRAND CIRCUIT PACE

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 18.—Walter Cochato took the 2:05 class pace on th Grand Circuit card, with two wins, with Mary H. Farr second, and Directum J. third. The 2:10 pace went to Betsy Hamlin, while Chestnut Peter walked off with the 2:12 trot for three-year-olds.

Dick Murphy Keeps Going

Dick Murphy, Braves' new outfielder, had another good day with the bat, even though the Cubs lost another. Up four times he pasted Meadows for two doubles.

ARMY LIFE HAS DONE LOT FOR BILL JAMES

By T. P. MAGILLIGAN.

San Francisco, July 18.—Baseball players who are now in the service tell me there is no training in the world so good as working the regular schedule as observed at the cantonments.

Big Bill James, hero of one world's series, and the man who did so much for the Boston Braves when they carried away the title, is now in Company I, 63d Infantry, and he says that the drill and exercise, regular hours and habits of the service life have rounded his arm to and made it over again, and that he is now able to pitch almost as well as when he was the sensation of the old bruin.

"The work in the service has brought my arm around fine," said James after Sunday's game at Recreation Park. "After I injured the throwing arm I visited all the best bonesetters and doctors in the country, but it could not be righted.

"However, what the doctors and bonesetters seemed unable to do, army life has done. It's the best training I've ever had, and, believe me, most of the boys in the service will tell you the same thing."

Yankee Music Like Tonic to Crippled Soldiers

Eddie Murphy, one of the cleverest lightweight boxers in this country and a product of South Boston, has recently returned from France, and is enjoying a short furlough with his parents at City Point. Eddie says that the French people go wild over each instalment of American soldiers and when the bands play Sousa's National Emblem March, the crippled French soldiers become inspired and express their desire to get back in the trenches.

ENGLISH GOLFER PRAISES HYANNISPORT LINKS

James Shepherd, the well-known golfer, has just received a letter from it. E. Sproule of the Mid-Surrey Golf Club, England, in which the latter declares that the Hyannisport links rank with the best in the country. In the letter he also says:

"It gave me great pleasure playing on the Hyannisport links, owing to their excellent condition after the past very hard Winter. I did not find a single bad lye on the fair green during the rounds I played, the putting greens were so good, so uniformly perfect, so different from the other putting greens I played on in Massachusetts this Spring.

"I hope to have the pleasure of playing with you again soon, over your very picturesque links."

HAPGOOD BOOKS SPICY TWIN BILL FOR SUNDAY

There will be another service doubleheader on Braves Field Sunday afternoon; Camp Devens vs. Fort Andrews and Boston Base vs. Boston Navy Yard Marines. The Base nine is captained by Chippy Gaw, Tufts' old diamond hero and former International League pitcher, and is out to upset Jack Barry, Ernie Shore & Co.

Fred Tyler, Southpaw George's brother, will catch for Camp Devens. That means Brick Wilder, former Red Sox, has probably gone "over there."

FRED MITCHELL IS GAME'S NEW MIRACLE MAN

Hugh Fullerton Lauds Stallings' Former "Ace"—Giving Cubs a Brilliant Ride

By HUGH S. FULLERTON.

Fred Mitchell looms large just now as the Miracle Man of 1918. He seems to have performed the feat of taking a mess of tripe and making it into porterhouse steak.

With a ball club, consisting chiefly of a strong pitching staff and one catcher; with his star pitcher taken from him right at the start of the season; with a regular line-up which figured to bat about .227, he is out far in front of the National League race.

His team is hitting .260, with four members over .300 whose composite average ought to be around .248, and he is out-generaling and out-playing every team he meets.

HAS TEAM IN HIGH.

Mitchell's team is playing the best ball in the league; working the hardest and showing the most headwork and the most resourceful attack. It may be that the Giants will beat out the Cubs, but if they do it will be because Killifer and Hollocher are taken from them.

Mitchell's real name is Fred Mitchell Yapp, and, when he broke into baseball, up at St. Johns in Canada, he wisely decided to forego the Yapp, knowing what the crowd would say about that name. He went to St. Johns with Larry McLean, and it was the encouragement and advice of Larry which kept Mitchell from discouragement.

It was McLean, in fact, who was instrumental in getting Boston to give Mitchell a trial as a pitcher. He was a good pitcher, and it looked for one season as if he would be a great one.

LIKED BY JIMMY COLLINS.

He had nerve, and even in those days he showed a knowledge of the game and a study of batters that is so much lacking among pitchers.

Jimmy Collins, then the premier infielder, became Mitchell's sponsor, and he told me once that Fred was the smartest, if not the best, pitcher on the staff. But his arm weakened.

He went back into the minors, emerged once as a pitcher, then developed as one of the best catchers in the league.

He reminded me much of Frank Chance as a catcher; that is, in his uncanny judgment of batters. Mitchell never let a batter get on one of the greatest helps to them and wanted to work with him. "The head was strong, but the arm was weak and Mitch went back to Buffalo.

When Philadelphia was there Chicago was seeking a manager. I press-agented Mitch, pleaded his cause, and the baseball owners are very much "sot" in their opinions.

RETURNS FROM BUFFALO.

No one would ever listen to Mitch, but Stallings had worked with him in Buffalo and knew his worth. He brought Mitch back to Boston as coach and assistant manager. Last Summer he was both named managers, and I two clubs wanted each to get Mitch. They refused.

Yet practically every player on the Boston Braves club that year told me that Mitchell deserved as much credit as did Stallings for the "miracle stuff." Chicago finally decided to give him a trial and he is making good with a vengeance.

Now maybe some of them will believe me when I tell them that Ivan Howard, ex-Clevelander, would make another big success as a manager.

Herrmann Tells Court Commission Rulings Always Binding

Cleveland, July 18.—In answer to the suit of the Philadelphia (American League) baseball club, in Common Pleas Court here, against the National Commission and Boston (National League) club, restraining them from interfering with the services of Pitcher Scott Perry, Chairman August Herrmann says:

BRAVES BRACE IN SERIES WITH REDS

Long String of Defeats Worries Stallings; Sudden Stand Needed to Avoid Last Place

Cincinnati, July 18.—The Boston Braves, who have slipped badly in the pennant fight; in fact, are now only three games removed from Celarville, where in early June they were the sensation of the race, are here for four frolics with C. Mathewson's erratic crew.

"Things are breaking badly; in fact, we haven't a chance, so tough is our luck," quoth Chief Stallings upon his arrival this morning. Stallings was never noted for making boilers, or issuing excuses, but he's raving this trip.

It is the Big Chief's claim that but for pop flies falling just out of the reach of his fielders his outfit would have negotiated a clean sweep in St. Louis, instead of losing the last two contests after bagging two games Sunday.

It was a single by Bruno Betzel with three on and two out in the ninth chapter of yesterday's getaway combat over in the Mound City that sent the Braves down to defeat, 4-3. With one out in the Cardinals' half of the ninth and the tally knotted, Canavan, who succeeded Hughes in the third, walked Cruise, trying to dodge one on the inside, lifted a freak single over Canavan's head. Paulette elevated to Massey. Then McHenry drew an intentional pass and made it easy for Fisher to score on Betzel's shot to centre.

The Braves had two chances to win out. In the eighth Massey walked and Wickland singled, but Meadows tightened and fooled the next three batters.

Canavan drew a pass in the ninth and Rawlings sacrificed. Herzog rolled to Betzel and there was a high throw to first. Paulette made a leaping catch and Canavan, expecting the ball to sail to the grandstand, was nipped at the plate.

Tomorrow's game has been moved up to Sunday, when a double-header will be played.

"YOU are thinking of the disgrace to him, are you, Johnny?"

"Disgrace! Some of the fellows from our first families had been kicked out of half a dozen colleges. There was a boy in the society I was trying for who boasted that he'd never stayed a full year anywhere. It's just father's ignorance—he won't understand. He may chuck me out to make my own way—I couldn't Cele! I'm used to things now, I couldn't do without them. If you don't stand by me maybe I'll have to. . . . Don't tell father. How can you tell what an illiterate man like father will do to me if he finds out?"

Then came Cecilia's great moment of weakness. She wanted to spare her father, and to spare him she had to spare Johnny. Perhaps if the boy had been made to pay for his wrongdoings, forced to suffer, compelled to go out into the world and earn his own way, his story might have been different. But Cecilia had to protect him in order to fend suffering from the old father who would have been plebeian enough to think expulsion from college a disgrace.

And so she made out a little tale of growing too fast and trouble with his eyes and a verdict from a great doctor that if Johnny was to be a strong and sturdy man he must have a year to rest and grow, and be out in the open and free from all nerve strain.

It wasn't a hideous sin—that lie—for if it had been, surely Father McKenzie would descend to save them. He was silent when he might have spoken. They all contrived to keep from Jeremiah Madden the truth about his son; and if the shrewd old Irishman suspected, had he not promised his Mary that he would be patient with the boy?

It was Cecilia's mistake—made for love of her father—to spare him. Because Cecilia would not know how little joy Jerry found in the riches his Mary could not share, he too kept silent. They wanted to protect Jerry from Johnny. But the boy was the one who needed protection—and from himself!

A Very Poor Plan

That old quotation about the type of occupation one "Satan" finds for idle hands is based on a completely reliable knowledge of human nature. Johnny Madden and idle hands with a world of leisure upon them, an idle brain with nothing but self and self-indulgence to occupy it—these and plenty of money.

Miss Dolly Vernon had little idleness in her life. Her nimble toes were never still. They flashed lightly at the Spotlight Cabaret and brought in almost enough money to support in luxury herself and a charming individual whose better acquaintance we shall make later.

Dolly came into John Madden's life along the path of an unoccupied evening when the red "Go-Devil" stopped in front of the flashy stucco building which might have rejoiced in a similar name.

"Looks pretty good!" said Johnny to himself idly. By that he meant "Looks very bad!" He got a call-number for his car, roamed into the gilded and perfumed lower hall and so took his way up-stairs to a great room perfumed and gilded still more and set off into little curtained alcoves that ran along a balcony and gave full view of a garish stage and a long oval of ballroom floor set among still more alcoves.

Back in the wings stood Miss Dolly Vernon, airily costumed in white tulle with bandages of silver with glimpses and flashes of rose-color chiffons set under the lovely pallor of the overdress. Dolly pirouetted down the stage on her toes. A red, red rose was between her yet more crimson lips. A dew drop of a hat, silver and airy tulle, was set on her black hair. A streamer of the tulle folded her rounded chin and slender throat. It floated out and a man at one of the tables she passed caught it. The girl twirled around on her toes, seized her red rose in fingers whose nails glittered back almost as redly and flung it to her admirer. Johnny gasped—O, the ease, the audacity of it!

A Sinister Figure

At a nearby table sat a dark-eyed man—his sleek, black hair was brushed back insolently from his forehead. He had a slim nose with quivering, eager nostrils; dark, burning eyes and a sensual, red-lipped mouth set under a black mustache and marked off by cruel lines running from nose to chin. A predatory, passionate face was his. He looked at Dolly with a sort of easy indifference and then fell to studying Johnny. That young man's suit bore the hall-mark of Fifth avenue's most expensive tailor. One pale pink pearl glistened in the boy's tie. On one of his hands there was a flat, priceless, table-cut emerald. On the other a cabochon star-sapphire, across his vest a platinum chain with tiny pearls. The boy had paid for a twelve - dollar bottle Chateau Ynuem with a hundred-dollar bill. The gentleman with the passionate and predatory face studied Johnny with an air of satisfaction.

Everything the boy did indicated: "Money." He looked from the boy to Dolly Vernon, and the air of satisfaction deepened. Our friend's name, Dolly Vernon, we shall want to remember that later.

Let us leave Johnny in the Spotlight Cabaret, still enjoying himself. It is very early—not yet eleven o'clock; and let us return to the Madden household where Cecilia is eagerly planning to welcome Harry Twombley is coming to spend the week-end. It is important for a young woman to give her own personal supervision to such matters as collars and cuffs for sport suits and roses and tulle for evening gowns. These details mean so much.

Home From Church

The girl is smiling wistfully, she has just come home from a visit to an altar in a little church down in the slum district. It is a church where once Mary Madden had worshipped, before sickness had made her keep her altar in her own home. Of white marble delicately traced with flushes of soft rose color, flanked with great candlesticks of silver and bearing a wonderful altar cloth embroidered in silver and rose color, the altar bore this inscription:

Sacred to the Memory of Mary O'Brien Madden,
Who Departed This Life in Her Youth,
From Her Loving Husband, Jeremiah Madden.

Cecilia had gone to the church bearing a great cluster of glorious Killarney roses—her tribute to the little dead mother she had loved so well. But there were other glowing pink roses there already and the attendant priest had smiled on her gently.

"He's always a bit ahead of you, little lady, is Mary Kelly, old father of yours. I'm thinking you must all have loved her pretty well. He never misses a day, your father doesn't, and she boy—he comes, too. Comes all the time. A wonderful mother you must have had."

"She was wonderful. Sometimes we feel as if she were with us yet," said Cecilia gently.

Then she knelt to say her prayer.

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

By Beatrice Fairfax

I Advise You to—"Don't"

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am sixteen and very much in love with a boy eighteen, who is soon leaving for camp, and wishes me to marry him before he leaves. My father objects on account of our ages. What would you advise me to do?

"HOPEFUL."

FATHER is right. Sixteen and eighteen are too young to marry even under ordinary circumstances. Under the present circumstances it would be absolutely tragic for them to mate. You see, dear, this war of ours may easily last three years longer and then perhaps your boy would be stationed in Germany to force our enemies to keep the peace. Suppose he didn't come back for five years; you two would have changed, would have grown from childhood to manhood and womanhood, would perhaps have developed so differently that you would have nothing in common. You aren't old enough to risk the cares and responsibilities of marriage alone. You aren't old enough to be sure that you are ready to care for and guard one who may be a wounded soldier. This is only a boy and girl romance and you mustn't lay up a heavy debt for a man and women to pay through it.

Not Fair

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

For the last year I have been going about with a man two years my senior. Lately he has made several excuses why he hasn't come to see me and naturally I believe he has found some one he cares for more than myself, yet he told me when last I saw him (two weeks ago) that I was the only one he does care for. He is jealous of me and does not even like me to go to dances. He lives out of town and therefore cannot go with me, so I go with myselejera. L. M.

WHETHER this man loves you or not doesn't seem quite as vital as the fact that his character is not the sort a sane person can like or admire. He seems to take a rather dog in the manger attitude about you, to want to deprive you of pleasures. I don't think he's good enough for you. He seems not to have fine ideals for himself and not th have a very complete faith and trust in you.

La-May Face Powder Does Not Contain Any White Lead

A specialist has at last perfected a pure face powder which really does what you that stays on until you wash it off. It does not contain white lead or starchy rice powder to make it stick. Five thousand dollars is offered any chemist who analyzes it and finds it contains any white lead. White lead poisons the skin and rice powder turns into a gluey paste that encourages enlarged pores, blackheads and rice powder pimples. This improved formula contains no medicinal powder doctors use to heal the skin. In fact, this new powder helps to prevent and reduce enlarged pores, blackheads and pimples. It is called La-may (French Poudre L'Ame). Because it is pure and because it stays on better than any other it is already sold by thousands of dealers everywhere. The large size is only fifty cents and the half size twenty-five cents. When you see how wonderfully it beautifies your complexion you will understand why La-may so quickly became the most popular beauty powder sold in New York. Save this notice.

New, Positive Treatment to Remove Hair or Fuzz

(Beauty Notes)

Women are fast learning the value of the use of delatone for removing hair or fuzz from face, neck or arms. A paste is made with some powdered delatone and water and spread on the hairy surface. In 2 or 3 minutes it is rubbed off, the skin washed and every bit of hair has disappeared. No failure will result if you are careful to buy genuine delatone.—Advertisement.

What Riggs Disease Is

AND HOW TO LESSEN ITS ADVANCES

By Brice Belden, M. D.

RIGGS' disease, or pyorrhoea, is not of great interest because of its evil effects upon the general health, not to speak of the deplorable consequences as regards the teeth themselves. It is regarded as a form of septic poisoning.

Riggs' disease results from infection of the gums by germs, which appear to be aided in their operations by the small animal organism known as the ameba. The formation of tartar, with consequent recession of the gums, promotes infection.

Besides the gum infection there are often found associated troubles of septic character in the tonsils. Abscesses about the roots of the teeth also occur.

The stomach is apt to become disordered in the course of Riggs' disease, because of the swallowing of the septic material. Remote infections have been traced to pyorrhea, such as appendicitis.

There is apt to be aching referred to the sides of the teeth, and there may be burning and stinging sensations. Cold air entering the mouth may start the aching. The gums are seen to be receded from the teeth and are red, shiny and swollen. They bleed easily, as, for example, when the toothbrush is used. Sometimes the mucous membrane hangs in folds. Slight pressure with the finger over the sodden areas may elicit a discharge of pus from between the teeth and the gum.

The gums are tender and spongy, and the tartar constantly accumulates and acts like a wedge, pushing the gums downward. Gumboils are frequent.

When the disease reaches an advanced stage the affected teeth loosen and drop out. If X-ray pictures of the teeth are made abscesses are frequently found at the roots of the teeth. Quite often these abscesses do not cause any pain.

In the treatment of this condition it is necessary to have the tartar removed and to brush the teeth regularly. An antiseptic mouth wash should be used three times daily, such as the alkaline antiseptic solution of the National Formulary.

After thorough cleansing of the mouth at night some milk of magnesia should be used and allowed to remain about the teeth.

Teeth which are very loose should be removed, which cures the pyorrhoea which has localized about them.

Scrubbing the gums with alcohol is said to relieve the sensitiveness to changes in temperature.

Dusting the gums with sulphate of quinine is an effective treatment. It may be dabbed on with absorbent cotton wrapped on a toothpick or match stick and dipped in the quinine.

A few drops of the fluid extract of ipecac, placed upon the toothbrush, is another valuable remedy.

Treatment by a dentist is always imperative.

In extensive cases in which the patients are past middle life it is safest to have the teeth drawn and to wear false ones.

How to Cook Vegetables

Vegetables just out of the garden taste best when simply cooked—steamed, boiled or baked—and served with a little salt, butter, milk or cream. Often a heavily-seasoned sauce covers up the more desirable vegetable flavor.

* * *

Overcooking of vegetables impairs their flavor. Very delicate flavors are destroyed, while vegetables with strong flavors, such as cabbage or onions, become disagreeably strong if cooked too long. Overcooking also destroys the attractive color of some vegetables.

* * *

Cook summer vegetables as soon after they are gathered as you can, in order to preserve the flavor. If they must be kept over, keep in the icebox or some other cool place.

* * *

Let wilted vegetables soak in cold water to freshen them. If vegetables must stand after paring, covering with cold water will prevent wilting and discoloration.

* * *

Before cooking, put head vegetables and greens in cold water for an hour, with one tablespoon of vinegar, to remove insects, then wash very carefully.

* * *

Drain all boiled vegetables as soon as tender—they become soggy if they are allowed to stand undrained after cooking. The water drained off may be saved for soup stock.

* * *

Most vegetables should be cooked in a small amount of water, because a part of the mineral salts dissolved out into the water, and is lost if the water is thrown away. Cook whole when possible.

* * *

Tender spinach or lettuce leaves require no added water for cooking. If thoroughly washed, enough water will cling to the leaves to prevent their burning.

* * *

Delicately - flavored vegetables should be steamed or cooked slowly in a small amount of boiling water until tender and the water boils away.

* * *

Strong-flavored vegetables may be cooked uncovered in a large amount of rapidly-boiling water, and the water changed several times during cooking.

MAKING MEAT LAST

(Try the savory stews. They can be a whole meal and a nutritious one. These recipes serve five people and are recommended by the U. S. Food Administration.)

HOT POT OF MUTTON AND BARLEY.

One pound mutton, ½ cup pearled barley, 1 tablespoonful salt, 4 potatoes, 3 onions, celery tops or other seasoning herbs.

Cut the mutton in small pieces, and brown with the onion in fat cut from meat. This will help make the meat tender and improve the flavor. Pour this into a covered saucepan. Add two quarts water and the barley. Simmer for one and one-half hours. Then add the potatoes cut in quarters, seasoning herbs, and seasoning, and cook one-half hour longer.

BEEF STEW.

One pound beef, 4 potatoes cut in quarters, ¼ peck peas or 1 can, 1 cup carrots cut up small, 1 teaspoon salt.

Cut the meat in small pieces and brown in the fat from the meat. Simmer in two quarts of water for 1 hour. Add the peas and carrots and cook for one-half hour, then add the potatoes. If canned peas are used, add them ten minutes before serving. Serve when potatoes are done.

MEAT PIES.

Another good way to use a little meat. Have you ever used rice, cornmeal mush, or hominy for a crust? This is less work than a pastry crust and saves wheat.

Four cups cooked cornmeal, rice or hominy; 1 onion, 2 cups tomato, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon fat, 1 pound raw meat or left-over meat cut up small, ½ teaspoon salt.

Melt the fat, add the sliced onion, and, if raw meat is used, add it and stir until the red color disappears. Add the tomato and seasoning. If cooked meat is used, add it with the tomato and seasoning, after the onion is browned and heat through. Grease a baking dish, put in a layer of the cereal, add the meat and gravy, and cover with the cereal dotted with fat. Bake for half an hour.

Legal Prolixity

If Jones, as an ordinary individual, were to give Brown an orange, he would simply say, "I give you this orange." But if Jones were a lawyer he would adopt this written form: "I hereby give and convey to you, all and singular, my estate and interests, right, title, claim and advantages of and in said orange, together with all its rind, juice, pulp and pips, and all rights and advantages therein, with full power to bite, suck and otherwise eat the same, or give the same away with or without the rind, skin, juice, pulp or pips, anything hereinbefore or hereinafter or in any other deed or deeds, instrument or instruments of whatever nature or kind soever to the contrary in any wise notwithstanding."

Women in War Work

By Elizabeth Ellam

Special Agent, United States Employment Service, Department of Labor.

PRACTICALLY every woman that you meet today wants to be either a munition worker or a trained nurse. There must be a psychological reason for this; but it is one that so far I do not comprehend. However, it is because I have so strongly urged the young womanhood of the country to take up nursing that I feel that there is an opportunity to explain some things right here.

In the first place, all of you chafe at the age restriction. Girls of seventeen write me beautiful letters, bubbling over with patriotism and a desire for service. They want to be Red Cross nurses, or they want to enroll in the training schools connected with base hospitals. And the most difficult thing in the world to impress upon these enthusiastic girls is the fact that they are too young.

Then comes the question of education. Practically every training school in the country, whether military or civic, insists that applicants have a high school education. Many of them today are instituting a special course for college graduates, realizing that the college woman, with her trained habits of study, assimilates the technical part of the course with far greater ease than the woman who is not so well equipped educationally.

For the nursing profession means a good deal more than the bathing of a fevered brow, the straightening of a rumpled sheet and the adjusting of a noisy window shade. It means months of hard study and tiresome lectures, it means hours of standing in operating rooms that are kept at an insufferable temperature—it means a knowledge of the slightest change of symptoms, of rising temperatures or gradually lessening breath.

This is one of the greatest reasons why an age of responsibility is insisted upon by reputable hospitals. There are very few of us who would feel safe in leaving a dear one who was hovering very close to the border land in the care of an eighteen-year-old child who might happen to be a nurse.

These are the two things that I want my readers to realize—the necessity for an age limit and a fairly good grounding for the technical side of nursing—which few take into consideration.

This, I believe, answers the question asked by so many of my youthful correspondents: "What are the educational requirements for enrolling as a nurse at the training schools at Camp Devens." A high school education is necessary. The age limit set by the government for the big army of nurses to be enrolled on July 28 is set from nineteen to thirty-five.

The only really romantic thing about nursing is the uniform that goes with it. If there is any romance in scrubbing ward corridors, in bathing and rubbing patients' backs when your own is aching so you can hardly stand the pain, and in losing sleep night after night, there are few trained nurses who can see it.

So, my young friends of seventeen, if you are turning wistful eyes to nursing because you know you will look distractingly pretty in the cap and gown of a nurse, if you think it is romantic to hold the hand of a homesick and wounded young officer, forget it! You are quite as apt to be called upon to bathe the back of a very dirty and very black stevedore before you are through.

But if you see in the nursing profession the greatest opportunity of service in the world, if you can appreciate the beauty of caring for helpless, tiny babies, of weary, patient mothers, and of soothing the last hours of the very aged with the tenderest care, then you are fitted by nature to be a trained nurse.

And it must have been you of whom it was written, thousands of years ago in the Book of Books, "of such are the kingdom of Heaven."

Reply in (Miss) A. C. C., Boston: If you will write to the surgeon-general of the army at Washington, D. C., or to Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, chairman of the women's committee, Council of National Defence, Washington, D. C., you will receive the information that you are in search of.

Electricity Inducing Rain

In Australia experiments are being carried out "down under" with an electrical plant to make rain. According to a Sydney newspaper, careful research showed the inventor, Mr. Hainille, that in fine weather there was a charge of positive electricity in the higher regions of the air, and that when it rained negative electricity predominated. He was studying the effects of mountains on rainfall, and came to the conclusion that hills acted as conductors of the negative electrical energy with which the earth's surface is charged. He argued that all that was necessary, therefore, to give flat plains the same advantage as regards rainfall as hilly country was a free passage of the negative electricity to the higher regions of the air. His original idea was that now constats of a set of two or three kites, which are let up on galvanised flexible wire to an altitude of 4,000 and 6,000 feet. The negative current is taken from the earth by means of a terminal, which is well grounded. Of course, the first essential in the business is wind. In his tests at Bookaloo and elsewhere Mr. Hainille has found that rain invariably falls after the kites have been in the air for from six to ten hours.

AUTO AGENCY COMBINE BIG SUCCESS

Sales Made in First 17 Days Very Gratifying, Says F. P. Allen

By C. F. DONNOCKER.

That the recent consolidation of the Maxwell and Chalmers agencies is proving a big success is substantiated from the report of Frank P. Allen of the C. E. Fay-Allen Company, distributor of both Maxwell and Chalmers cars and Maxwell trucks. In an interview yesterday Mr. Allen said:

"The new arrangement is working out even better than our fondest anticipations. The sales which have been made by the new company which is only seventeen days old, are remarkable and this applies to our entire line and used cars as well. As is well known these are the days when every business man must get the greatest efficiency out of his organization and where we have both lines under the one roof, we naturally can reduce our overhead expenses and at the same time have a larger force of salesmen to push cars and trucks.

"Both Mr. Fay and myself are well pleased with the results so far and we believe that we will see better business as time goes on. It is indeed fortunate that we were able to form this combination and increase our business. Of course the fact that both lines are manufactured by one parent company helps a whole lot.

"If it were not a breach of business etiquette we could give some figures on the sales made so far that would be a revelation. The demand for trucks seems to be increasing in this territory and I fully believe that the time is not far distant when manufacturers will appreciate more fully the fact that Boston and New England form one of the most lucrative fields for the sale of trucks in the country."

Madison, Wis., July 18.—A perfect letter "B" formed on the under side of the oat leaves has been causing much speculation among farmers throughout the country and by many of them the letter is said to mean "blood," because this is wartime. Much Misconstrued Russian Situation Awaits Momentous Exercise of Our President's Wisdom

THE air is surcharged with rumors that President Wilson is in the act of making a momentous decision concerning our attitude toward Russia. The decision, whatever it is, will be momentous, for it must be either right or wrong, and in either event it will be of tremendous moment to America and her allies in this struggle.

Probably the greatest and the most unknown factor of the war is Russia. She has more than eight million and a half square miles. Germany has only two hundred and eight thousand square miles. Austria-Hungary has only two hundred and sixty thousand square miles. The United States has scarcely one-third the area of Russia.

Russia has a population of more than one hundred and seventy-five millions, Germany less than seventy millions, and we have only a little over one hundred millions. Russia has resources in mineral wealth, in lumber and in all those things which are the foundation of wealth and power, when utilized by a vigorous, intelligent people, in proportion to her area and in vastly greater proportion than to her population.

Russia was plunged into this war by an arbitrary, despotic, dark, corrupt, imperialistic government for purposes which the Russian people did not understand and without the consent of the Russian people, and without any consultation of their interest. They were sent by an inefficient, corrupt, traitorous government to the most awful slaughter that was ever known on this earth. The Russian peasants in arms were sacrificed by the hundreds of thousands to the treasonable practices of the corrupt bureaucracy which controlled the Russian government before the revolution.

Germany was beaten almost to its knees in the early part of 1915. When France had defeated her at the Marne and pinned her down on the borders of Belgium; when English legions were pouring into France, even as our legions are pouring into France today, and the Russians had defeated Hindenburg before Warsaw and almost destroyed one of her armies, Germany was nearer defeat than she has ever been since that day.

Thereupon, beaten on the battlefield, she turned to an old weapon with which she has become clever through the practice of forty years—she turned to the bribery of the Russian officials. What she could not win by the power of the sword she won by the corrupt power of money.

The Russian munition factories began to blow up. What little munitions Russia had were shipped on wrong trains by wrong routes into nowhere, or rather everywhere except where ammunition was needed. Deliberate railroad wrecks aided the false designation of the munitions. Great Britain offered to the Russian bureaucracy an immense supply of munitions, and the corrupt bureaucracy rejected the offer, saying that they had enough—enough, when their cannon had not a single shell, when only one soldier in five had a rifle and a few cartridges, when four Russians had to stand by under fire waiting to pick up a rifle as it fell from the palsied hand of a wounded comrade.

The Russians thus deprived of arms and munitions by corruption, the Germans slaughtered them just as a sportsman could slaughter hens in a hennery with a scatter-gun. In all human records nothing equals the destruction of life which the Russians suffered through the betrayal of their bureaucracy under the now fallen Czar. Millions of Russian peasants lie in their premature, unmarked graves, and tens of millions of Russian women and children weep over their lost ones—the holocaust sacrifice of the Czar's misgovernment and German bribery.

When the Russian peasants and workers arose and overthrew their unspeakable government they wanted to overthrow everything that belonged to their government or that flowed from it, for they hated everything that had its origin in the power that had betrayed them and oppressed them for generations. The war had been declared by the Czar. They regarded it as Czar-made, of the Czar, for the Czar and by the Czar whom they had overthrown and imprisoned. Their country was weakened by the loss of blood, the loss of treasure, the disruption of business and of industry; and the prostration of Russian agriculture by the war, and by the conduct of the war, made the Russian people helpless to continue it, even if they had not loathed it as Czar-caused and Czar-managed.

They made the best peace they thought they could make against an enemy with one hand on their throats and with the point of a sword in the pit of their stomachs, and they are now trying to "bind up the nation's wounds."

But Russia, terribly as she has suffered, is still only weak from a temporary prostration. So vast is Russia that it was either Napoleon or Von Moltke who said that "to strike Russia was like punching a pillow"—in the long run it meant exhaustion to the arm that delivered the blows, but no harm to the pillow.

What part will Russia play in the great struggle as she slowly rises from her prostration or slowly disintegrates for the exploitation of the most masterful contestant? That question becomes of increasing moment. If Germany is able to command the resources of Russia in men and material, we shall never be able to defeat Germany. If we permit her to enthrall the Russian mind with German "Kultur" in the next year we shall suffer a defeat greater than the German armies have been or will be able to inflict. We shall permit to be raised against us an obstacle to victory greater than the German armies, the German trenches, and the German heavy artillery, and, worse than that, we shall permit the destruction of democracy in Russia, where it has a greater and more favorable field for development than in any part of the world. Not only for our own sake, that we may win this fight against Germany, but for the sake of democracy itself, that we may save it in Russia, ought we to do everything we can to prevent the moral and intellectual surrender of the Russian people to the German propaganda.

How can we do it?

The first step in the accomplishment of that purpose is to understand the situation in Russia. Let us come to an absolute understanding that Russia has not betrayed the allies in withdrawing from this conflict. Many of the men and the newspapers in this country that are denouncing the Russians as traitors are actuated not so much by hatred of the Russian withdrawal from the war as by the hatred of the alleged socialistic principles set up by the Russian revolution. But whether or not the Russians have gone too far in socializing the land of Russia and in the other steps making Russia a heritage to all the Russians, it is certain that there is nothing inconsistent in this policy or in these acts with democracy.

Let us also understand the form of Russia's present government. Let us understand that it is not anarchy, but that it is a representative government, not pyramided upon the invisible forces of a few private interests, as the Russians have had too much reason to believe was too long characteristic of an inverted democracy in America. The Soviet government is based upon the broadest constituency. Its foundation is so low and so broad that it has withstood every attack, however violent and however well directed.

The Soviet government resembles the elements in our American democracy which are the most stable and strong. The Soviet organization rests upon local self-governing bodies, like the famous New England town meetings. A distinguished American student of Russian affairs, who has just returned from Russia, and who belongs to that class in our community which is most prone to denounce the Russian government, says that the Russian government cannot be destroyed except from below. These local self-governing bodies are comprised of the peasants and workingmen of the local communities. This is not so much like class government as it seems, because Russian tyranny did not permit the rise of a substantial middle class. In Russia the people were practically all the exploiters and the exploited, the corrupt bureaucrats and the illiterate workingmen and peasants. But when we say illiterate we do not mean ignorant in every sense of that word. The Russians have exercised through the neglect of the old regime a large measure of self-government for years and are practiced in the arts of self-constraint, of consideration and discussion in the conduct of their local affairs. The local bodies send delegates to the "All-Russian Assembly of Soviet Delegates," which must meet every three months, and, in fact, meets very much more frequently. This All-Russian Assembly of Soviet Delegates in turn elects a central executive committee of about two hundred and fifty members. This executive committee is the legislative body of the Russian people.

This central committee elects what are called "Commissioners of the People," who represent the Cabinet officers in England, France and Italy and the President and Cabinet officers in the United States. These Cabinet officers, called "Commissioners of the People," are always responsible to the legislative body which has chosen them. They can be removed at any moment by the Legislature, just as the Legislature can be removed by the All-Russian Assembly of Delegates, and just as the All-Russian Assembly of Delegates can be removed in the Soviets by the people.

Nothing can be more orderly or more stable in a democracy than this. Indeed, it is too stable for a full-grown democracy. We would not call it democratic enough in America. Our corporations and special interests could play ducks and geese with an organization like this. And, indeed, it is peculiarly susceptible to corruption by a subtle German propaganda. But it cannot be overthrown by open attack or by any methods which require sufficient publicity to make them known to the Russian people and which the Russian people do not approve.

The stability of this form of government has been proved on numerous occasions by men in the highest station in Russia and commanding the greatest power. When Kerensky opposed the authority of the Soviets he was not able to make even a decent resistance to the Soviet power. He fell without the slightest exertion by the Soviets. General Korniloff, commanding the Russian armies, undertook to overthrow the Soviets by military force and failed most ignominiously. So did the Battalions of Death, and Savinkoff, Kalidine, Alexieff, Stcherbatscheff and Semenoff. Alexieff, one of the greatest and most loyal Russian generals, organized an army of picked and well-equipped soldiers and advanced from Rostoff to Moscow. There was no army representing the Soviet government between Moscow and Rostoff. Yet such was the power of the Soviets that before he reached Moscow the yeomanry of the Russian democracy, determined not to yield up the fruits of the revolution to any reaction, poured in from the surrounding country in such numbers that this veteran general with his veteran troops was obliged to retreat and surrender.

The very relation of this story makes an American democrat thrill with the recollection of our own Battle of Lexington, when the American peasants, our forefathers, summoned by Paul Revere, took their muskets and flocked to the revolutionary colors, gaining in numbers until they halted their enemy and drove him back in full flight to the protection of his ships in Boston Harbor.

The Bolsheviki is only the name of a political party, for the moment the majority party. The word Bolshevik is itself the Russian word for majority. The men now constituting the Bolsheviki may represent a permanent or a passing phase of Russian political opinion. In revolutionary movements as upheaving as this political parties do not stay long in power. At any moment the Social Democrats may come into control of the Russian government. The Bolsheviki have already controlled the government as long as a party usually controls the government in France. The election of a Democratic Congress in November and of a Republican Congress at the very next election is a very frequent occurrence in America. In four years England has had two Cabinet upheavals.

So the Bolsheviki party has no more to do with the FORM of the Russian government than our Democratic and Republican parties have to do with the form of government our people established when they adopted the Constitution. And when we urge respect for the Russian government we urge respect for the Soviet government, which is the form of government that the Russian people have set up.

The Bolsheviki party may or may not be worthy to direct the great destinies of Russia in her most critical hour. We have been and still are unwilling to believe that Lenine and Trotzky are faithless to their professions. The treaty of peace with Germany was no evidence whatever of corruption. And it is most significant that wherever in Russia German troops are fighting, whether in Finland or in the Ukraine, they are fighting as the allies of the reactionary, capitalistic party AGAINST the Bolsheviki.

On the President's information it may seem wise to co-operate with the present Bolsheviki majority or it may seem wise to oppose it. But the vocal part of America does not and cannot yet know the truth about Russia's internal conditions. Therefore the attempt to conduct a violent propaganda for or against any political party in Russia can only be embarrassing to the President. This newspaper would be the last to yield its opinion on an important question concerning which it considered itself as well informed as the President. But this is not the case with regard to Russia's present condition. We can only say that such facts as we do know make us certain that our greatest danger lies in Russia—that there is power enough in Russia to blast all our hopes if Germany is allowed to seize it.

We rely upon the President to find a way by which Russia can be saved from German exploitation and yet her revolution saved, too.
